Schools move ahead with 45-15 plans

By MIKE ARNHOLT

PLYMOUTH—Students in the Miller Elementary School attendance area will be starting the 45-15 year-round school program in mid-July.

That was the decision reaffirmed by the Plymouth school board Tuesday night on a 5-0 vote directing administration to proceed with plans for the program.

At the same time, the board has requested a survey of parents to give them the option of choosing to send their children to another school, if 45-15 is not to their liking. The survey will begin on March 31, according to Supt. John M. Hoben.

A group of more than 30 residents from the Miller area joined in the board discussion, with close to 20 voicing objections to 45-15.

Those parents asked the board to consider other options of using portable classrooms, or busing some students out of the Miller area to other schools.

"This district has been short of schools for years," commented Trustee George Lawton, "and that's one reason why 45-15 has been proposed."

"I'm guilty of being sold on the idea that 45-15 provides an equal educational program and a viable method of housing students."

Discussing alternatives to 45-15, Hoben said the district could purchase three portables for the Miller site which would handle an added 90 students. Hoben estimated the cost of the portables and the added staff for the school at approximately $68,000, with approximately $20,000 coming from building and site funds for the cost of the portables and their furnishings.

The 45-15 cost projections, pared down by more than $25,000 from a meeting on March 22, were set at close to $63,000. That total would be taken out of general operating funds.

The board spent the first portion of the meeting listening to concerns of Miller Principal Shirley Spaniel, as voiced by Assistant Supt. James Leary. Mrs. Spaniel was unable to attend the meeting because she was on vacation.

Leary said he was concerned with the lack of enthusiasm for 45-15, by both Mrs. Spaniel and some members of the Miller community that had supported the program last year. When asked why Mrs. Spaniel had changed her mind on the program, Leary said he didn't know. He said he was also "concerned over the real educational benefits that will be derived."

Lawton said he felt Mrs. Spaniel's main concern was over the "polarization" that has taken place within the Miller area over 45-15. Lawton told residents present that whether for or against 45-15, they should "get over the polarization that has been taking place over the last few weeks." He asked residents to consider the 45-15 issue one that affects the entire school district "and not just your child."

Miller currently houses 733 students, with a capacity of something under 700. With the addition of 45-15, the capacity of the school will be 900 students, and enrollments for the school in July is expected to be approximately 832 students.

Leary suggested that the district consider starting with only two tracks of the 45-15 program to gauge its acceptance, but board members said that two tracks would not take care of the overcrowding at Miller. "The best interests are served by implementing the 45-15 program on a four-track basis," said Lawton.

Noting her commitment to the 45-15 program, Board Vice President Marda Benson said, "I have never kept it a secret that I will not go back for additional bonding to build new schools until we have fully utilized the schools that we have."

Lawton said, however, that if there were compelling reasons why 45-15 wasn't working, "the community would not be stuck with it for the next 50 years."

Adding concerns about overbuilding, Lawton said, "All you have to do is look to the east of us (Livonia) and see what an improper building plan can do." Livonia currently has more than 50 classrooms which are vacant throughout the district.

One resident suggested that the district provide more choice to parents, and allow them to opt out to schools other than Allen, Fiegel and East elementaries, but Hoben said that other neighboring schools, including Gallimore and Smith, were already filled to capacity.

Another resident asked what would happen in the event of a teacher strike. Personnel director Norman Kee explained that the current contract with the Plymouth Education Association includes language to prevent a strike by teachers at Miller for one year after the expiration of the current contract in August 1976. "The contract provides for no interruption in the 45-15 program until August 1977," Kee said.

The 45-15 plan was originally introduced last year and was planned to begin in July, 1974. A last minute refusal by teachers to begin the program without a contract, forced the school board to drop the plan.

Under 45-15, each student will still attend the required 180 days of classes each year. Each of four tracks would begin school on a staggered basis, with one-fourth of the total number of students beginning school every three weeks.

By the end of the ninth week, the first track would leave for a 15-day vacation, while the fourth track would be beginning.

The school would be completely shut down for a two-week period during the summer, and this, plus the students' three weeks off some time during the summer, would replace the usual summer vacation.

Miller school was selected for the program because it is the only elementary school in the district that is air conditioned, and because the area is currently experiencing the greatest rate of growth in the district.

Hoben said the program would start either July 14, or July 21.

Citizens differ with officials

Ad council study stalemated

CANTON—"The one thing we all agreed on was that there had been a big misunderstanding and that we should have met much earlier," commented Township Treasurer Carl Parsell after six members of the committee to form a new citizen's advisory council met with the township officers Monday.

Al Mitchell, Clarence Partin, John Prince, Lynne Goldsmith, Bill Vitti, and Gary Sands met with Parsell, Clerk John Flodin and Supervisor Robert Greenstein at the township offices. According to Goldsmith, "little was accomplished."

Partin was a little more optimistic. "Nothing was agreed to but both sides were flexible. We gave a great deal and they also gave some ground. It could be to the point now where it is just a matter of semantics."

The committee to form the advisory council had been meeting for several months with planner Mike Manore to draft a proposal stating its goals, responsibilities and composition.

They reached a consensus and submitted a proposal to the board several weeks ago.

Manore also submitted an alternate plan favored by Greenstein.

The main points of contention between the plans are the make-up of the council and the method of selection.

The citizen committee favors representation based on population with representatives from the eight voting precincts in Canton. Manore's proposal suggested representation from the homeowner groups and various organizations in the township. His suggestion also asks that the committee pick three people and have the board select one for each spot on the council.

The citizens wanted to pick one nominee for each spot and have the board either confirm or veto that nominee.

Said Parsell, "Mike gave them some ideas and they thought it was the sentiment of the board. That just isn't true. The board hasn't discussed or reached a consensus on this matter. They thought we were telling them what to do. We weren't."

He added, "But I can't see how the citizens should have the responsibility to appoint people. That should be the responsibility of elected officials."

The treasurer said it was unfortunate the council had not been formed earlier. He commented, "We would have them study the Mettetal Airport purchase plan, that garbage landfill that is supposed to be a perfumed golf course (at Hannan and Michigan) and the possibility of a farmer's market or any number of issues that affect the total community."

The six who form the advisory council will report back to their entire membership March 31.

On April 1, prior to the joint study session of the board and planning commission, the committee as a whole will discuss the matter further with the entire township board.

Ancient egg tradition lives

PLYMOUTH— Julia Bochensky, 1125 Fairground, has a head start on the thousands of households busily preparing for the Easter Bunny this week.

While other Plymouth-Canton residents haul out the dyes and eggs and Easter baskets in preparation for the Christian celebration on Sunday, Mrs. Bochensky relaxes in Ukrainian garb and admires her preparations, already complete.

The Ukrainian descendant's eggs, decked out in the ancient folk art of "pysanky" or Ukrainian egg decorating, shine with intricate geometric patterns and colors of yellow, orange and red—and outshine the decorating of the rest.

"It's a delicate job," Mrs. Bochensky admitted, as she examined one of her brightly-colored creations. "Sometimes it takes you three evenings to do one egg. I've been at this on and off for five weeks."

A secretary at General Motor's Hy-dromatic Division at Willow Run, Mrs. Bochensky has rushed home to her "pysanky" basement laboratory the last five weeks to color her eggs in the way taught by her mother and her mother before her.

The Ukrainian descendant, who recently gave a "pysanky" demonstration at an arts and crafts show in Belleville, says the art, born in the Ukraine before the Middle Ages, is no deep, dark secret.

First, one sketches the design on a fresh, raw egg, explained Mrs. Bochensky. A special stylus is next heated in a candle flame and dipped into a jar of wax.

The "pysanky" artist traces the design, which she wishes to remain white, with the stylus and dips the egg into a light-colored dye. The tracing and dipping process is repeated for consecutively darker colors, until the egg is coated with wax.

A fine cloth, dipped in cleaning fluid, is then used to wipe the wax from the egg, and the brightly-colored geometric designs appear. A coat of varnish adds the finishing touch and helps preserve the egg.

Ukrainians, says Mrs. Bochensky, exchange the decorated eggs at Easter and throughout the year. The crea-

U.S. court asks more briefs in school segregation case

By DENNY COFFMAN

DETROIT—U.S. District Court Judge Robert E. DeMascio has delayed a ruling on whether 83 suburbs will be excluded from cross-district school busing, if the Detroit system is told to implement busing.

In other words: If the Detroit school system gets busing, are the suburbs off the hook?

DeMascio Wednesday ordered that attorneys for the Detroit Board of Education submit briefs by April 7 in the four-year-old Detroit school desegregation case. Attorneys for the suburbs will file responsive briefs on April 11.

DeMascio ASKED that the briefs be addressed to the issue of whether a new cause of action aimed at bringing about a metropolitan remedy for inter-district segregation is precluded once a plan designed to eliminate segregation within the Detroit school system has been undertaken.

Prior to his action Wednesday, DeMascio had indicated that he would rule on a recent request by the NAACP to keep suburban school districts as parties to the case.

If DeMascio had ordered to keep the suburbs in the case, it would have introduced a new legal twist into the cross-district busing dispute (the U.S. Supreme Court temporarily ruled out cross-district busing last summer).

THE SUBURBAN districts want to stay out of the hassle, hopefully confining busing to the Detroit School District. The NAACP and the Detroit Board of Education want the suburbs to remain a party to the desegregation case, with the intent of eventually effectuating busing beyond the Detroit city limits.

DeMascio, however, would not rule one way or the other, but demanded more material upon which to base his decision.

"Accordingly," DeMascio's order read, "the parties should address themselves to the following question: Does implementation of a desegregation plan for the Detroit School District bar a subsequent suit or an amended complaint alleging inter-district violations necessary to support a metropolitan desegregation plan?"

Lt. Gov. Damman optimistic following state investigation

By MICHAEL CHARLES

LANSING—Lt. Gov. James J. Damman remained determinedly optimistic about his personal future this week following a searching inquiry into his public and private conduct as a Troy city official by Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley.

"I am naturally pleased . . . that the attorney general's investigation is completed and that the governor and I can now put this matter behind us," Damman said in a brief statement Monday afternoon.

Damman said he looks forward "to working closely with the governor in addressing the critical issues of our state."

Touching briefly on the reason for Kelley's detailed examination of the lieutenant governor's background, the statement said there is "an urgent need" for comprehensive conflict of interest laws at the state level to guide the conduct of public officials "at all levels of government." Damman added that all public officials ought to avoid "the appearance of impropriety—even where impropriety does not exist."

AS IF to emphasize his attempt to "put this behind us," Damman maintained a normal schedule this week. He attended "Bill's Birthday Beefsteak" dinner Tuesday night in Southfield, an annual fund-raising event for Gov. William Milliken. On Wednesday morning, Damman attended the weekly Republican party strategy meeting and chaired a Senate session in the afternoon.

With the state Senate in recess until April 7 after Wednesday, Damman plans to continue his activities with the Michigan Bicentennial Commission next week. A routine speech also has been scheduled for him in South Haven, aides said.

Milliken also adopted a business-as-usual attitude this week and promised "to move forward" with his hand-picked running mate to serve "all the people of Michigan." Like Damman, the governor urged passage of a strong state conflict-of-interest law to "provide better guidelines for local officials."

"WHILE PRESENT law prohibits certain kinds of contractual relationships on the part of local public officials, there is a need to strengthen this law," Milliken said.

Meanwhile, it remains for ordinary citizens to digest the meaning of Kelley's report to determine if Damman's activities as a land speculator in Troy and his position as a city councilman in the late 1960s were ethically correct.

Kelley himself flatly refused to discuss ethical considerations with reporters this week, saying only that he had been asked to determine if Damman violated existing state law regarding conflicts of interest among local officials. The attorney general found that Damman had not violated any laws.

Burke, former Councilmen Glen H. Houghton and Ben S. Jones, and board of review chairman Roger H. Blackwood, a Birmingham Realtor.

"The investigation," Kelley said, "was handicapped and hindered by the lack of subpoena power (for the state attorney general) and the refusal of nine of Mr. Damman's partners to be interviewed in the course of the investigation."

"The (Lincoln) partnership did establish a pattern of conduct which involved willful secrecy and an avoidance of public knowledge of their activities."

Kelley also said his investigators "found it cumbersome and not very satisfactory to have to deal with third-hand hearsay (testimony) in trying to evaluate the accuracy of the information made available to us in regard to the allegations against Mr. Damman."

The attorney general made it clear during a Monday press conference he will reopen the investigation if other facts become known to his office. However, Kelley said he is satisfied "we've exhausted those subjects."

"We have determined the facts as best we can, and we have applied the law to the facts," he said. "He (Damman) engaged in a certain course of conduct, none of which was illegal. There's a possibility there's something we've missed, but I don't know of any untraced lead to date."

Kelley said he does not believe there is sufficient reason for another agency, such as a grand jury, to conduct a similar probe of Damman's activities.

License tab deadline nears

Michigan motorists without new 1975 license plate tabs after midnight Monday, March 31, will face being ticketed.

Special service hours have been set up for Saturday, March 29 at three local civil service-staffed branches of the office of Secretary of State. Offices will be open for tab sales only from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the Garden City office on Ford Road near Merriman, the Livonia office on Six Mile Road, and the Plymouth office on Pennington.

Regular office hours at these offices will be from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Friday, March 28, and from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Monday, March 31.

Non-civil service branches have their own hours.

Fees for the tabs, a pressure-sensitive tape applied to the license plate, remain the same this year.

KELLEY'S detailed report outlines what he termed a "definite pattern of secrecy" regarding the operations of Lincoln & Co., the Warren-based land investment group which included Damman, Troy City Attorney Stanley E.

Easter Seals' coffee day is Good Friday

Three local restaurants and three Wayne County restaurant chains will be participating in the Easter Seal Society's coffee day on Good Friday, March 28.

Waiters and waitresses have been selling "Buck-A-Cup" buttons which entitle buyers to free coffee Friday at the Mayflower in Plymouth; Leright's in Westland; Sherwood Inn in Livonia; and all Red Barns, Elias Brothers Restaurants and White Castles in Wayne County.

Cosponsored by the Michigan Restaurant Association, funds raised during coffee day will assist handicapped children and adults in Easter Seal programs in the Wayne County area.

Young promises suburbs

By WYLIE GERDES

Suburban leaders asked for stronger guarantees of their interests in Detroit water system affairs after meeting Tuesday night in Southfield with Detroit Mayor Coleman Young.

About 150 suburban leaders listened to Young argue that the present water board structure has enough protection for the suburbs. However, the group delegated Livonia Mayor Edward H. McNamara the authority to name a committee to study the issue.

Young said the suburbs now have three members on the seven-man water commission. McNamara and others said there is no guarantee that all seven could not be Detroit residents since the members serve at the pleasure of the Detroit mayor.

McNamara last month questioned a proposed 35 per cent water rate hike, and some operating procedures of the water department. Detroit sells water to all suburbs.

YOUNG APPOINTED McNamara to the water commission last year after the new Detroit city charter went into effect.

After appearing earlier Tuesday before a Michigan House of Representatives committee studying the issue, McNamara said action of the legislature is the "only way" to assure representation.

The committee supported State Rep. John Bennett's call for an investigation into the water system's operations. A vote on the investigation was scheduled for Wednesday, McNamara said.

McNamara said he seeks no rate controls because increases may be needed. However, suburban water users have no guarantee that supplies will continue.

"Equity demands representation," McNamara commented.

In his opening remarks, McNamara praised Young for backing the current commission. Both McNamara and Young said before the charter change, the system was in control of career civil servants.

"THE PROBLEMS...are not the fault of the present mayor," McNamara said. The previous water board was a "totally rubber stamp commission."

"Unfortunately, politics never got into it and that's one of its problems," McNamara said.

McNamara said the 35 per cent rate increase could have been billed July 1 if he and others hadn't complained. He added that the systems budget is either "set up to fool people" or the result of gross incompetence.

Young used his time before the suburban officials to criticize water department civil servants and to ask for cooperation between Detroit and its suburbs on other issues.

"Too often Eight Mile Road has stood as a barrier between us," Young said.

Young said he generally is against regionalism when it implies loss of local control but for regionalism when it implies and in fact demands cooperation among governments.

McNamara's comments gave a "true picture" of the water commission operation, he said.

"UP UNTIL July 1, the Detroit water board was literally a 900 pound gorilla."

The commission had no power to remove the system's director. "The staff ran the water board, not the commission." Now, Young said, the director and deputy director serve at the pleasure of the board, which in turn serves by appointment from the Detroit mayor.

"I think that makes it pretty clear who runs the water department."

When McNamara challenged the rate increase and budget, it was the "first payoff" from the charter change, Young said.

"For the first time...the customers have a right to challenge a figure."

Young said an increase may be needed in sewer use charges because of a new plant and new pipes.

ALTHOUGH CRITICAL of the "high-handed manner" in which it operated, Young also said the Detroit system supplies water which is among the best and cheapest in the country.

The mayor added all customers of the water system will be treated fairly as long as he is mayor.

"I don't believe in discrimination. I've been a victim of it too long," Young said.

Young said he wants suburban backing for a mass transit system in Detroit. However, he wasn't eager to relinquish control of the water system.

If the water system is regionalized, Young said, so also should schools and transportation systems.

"We give you our water system. You take our kids in your schools."

Cooperation so every student has the same amount of money for his education is needed, Young said.

THE DETROIT mayor added he is "not asking for a busing solution although I will accept cross-district busing if I can't get anything else."

Comments from the city officials, about two-thirds of whom were from Wayne County, mostly concerned whether the state should be involved in regulating water rates.

Westland Mayor Eugene McKinney recommended a task force to study the problem.

"I don't have that much confidence in boards and commissions," McKinney said. A watchdog committee of suburban representatives would be better than having a state board regulate rates.

"I'm not sure the answer's in the state legislature."

Plymouth City Manager Fred Yockey said the issue will get "too far afield" if it goes before the legislature. The Detroit city charter should say each county in the area should have a representative on the commission.

STUDENTS AT ALLEN Elementary School and Deputy School Supt. Earl Hogan enjoyed storytelling hour in the school library last week. Hogan and other central office administrators as well as parents, students and teachers are reading stories to elementary school students as part of the library's new program.

School officials telling tall tales

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—Allen Elementary School principal Tom Workman is pulling the district's administrators from their paper-filled offices these days.

Dr. Jim Leary, assistant superintendent for instruction, and Dr. Earl Hogan, the district's deputy superintendent, took a jaunt to the Allen School library recently to read a story to students.

The storytelling hour is all part of Allen's reorganized library structure under which the district's administrators, teachers and parents are asked to increase their involvement with students.

Workman explained, "I especially want to get those administrators who don't have a direct contact with children in order to keep the district spiraling toward the children rather than the board of education."

"I think the longer we work without contact with children and insulate ourselves from the classroom, the less our decisions are based on the real needs of children and teachers—which is the real purpose of our existence," he said. "I just think an experience like this clears the picture of what we're in business for."

So far, the week-old program has seen Leary, Hogan, Workman, a kindergarten teacher, a student teacher from Eastern Michigan University and the school's front office secretary with storybook in hand.

Future plans for storytelling hour to include the entire cast of central office administrators, Workman said, as well as students, parents and former teachers of Allen School.

"We're going to get the whole group to broaden the children's contact with responsible adults," he said.

Under the school's new library structure, stories are read to students twice a day. A maximum envoy of six student listeners is sent from each classroom.

Leary, who gave Allen's students an account of "The Big Sandwich" last week, called his storytelling experience "exciting."

"I think it's an excellent opportunity to keep in touch with children on an up-to-date basis," Leary said, "and to see the glowing look in a child's eyes. It's good to keep in touch with children at all age levels. That helps us design curricular programs."

"I think the whole thing is exciting and good for children too," Leary said. "I think it's great for children to see that adults enjoy reading. Children, for example, are more likely to read at home if their parents read."

Workman added, "It's easy to get bogged down in the office with administrative trivia, but I try to get into the classroom each day. It's the best part of my job."

Schools might fight access road

PLYMOUTH—A temporary construction access road may be built for the Windsor Park school site in Canton Township, but the Plymouth School Board has made it clear that a permanent road is out of the question.

The board has instructed architects for the school to bid the construction road as an alternate. At the same time it is seeking a legal opinion on the responsibility of the district to construct the road.

The road is currently required by the Wayne County Road Commission, before construction permits are granted for the elementary school.

Citizens of the Windsor Park subdivision first appeared before the board at the Feb. 24 meeting, and at a subsequent public meeting on the access road on March 19 to urge the board to keep construction traffic off the residential streets. Homeowner representatives also spoke at Monday's board meeting.

Canton Township Supervisor Robert Greenstein has argued on behalf of the residents stating that the district has the responsibility, like any developer, to provide access to the construction site.

Currently, the only access to the site is off Arlington and Fleet streets.

While the school board appeared split on whether the road should be built at all, the instructions to the architect and the request for legal advice received unanimous support of the board.

Since discussion on the access road began, cost estimates on the road have varied from $25,000 to nearly $100,000.

After many contacts with both the county road commission, and the county drain commission, the agreed on estimates hit closer to the $25,000 figure. That cost would include some type of bridging of the Tonquish creek, as required by the drain commission.

Board trustee Gary Mirto said he has favored the road as a safety issue, and said he would like to see the road constructed, "no matter what it costs."

Trustee George Lawton said he disagreed, but added that those on both sides of the issue favored safety.

"I happen to be on the side of safety, and for that reason I have favored the selection of school sites within subdivisions," Lawton said.

Lawton said he was concerned about setting a precedent. He asked what would happen if the same type road was required at the Sunflower Subdivision site in Canton where a construction road would have to be built across a ½ mile length of woods and swamp.

While some discussions have centered on moving the site, estimates by architects on moving approach $100,000.

Trustee Carl Berry said he favored the construction road, but commented, "I can in no way get involved in a permanent road."

"I wonder if the Wayne County Road Commission would have done anything if political pressures had not been placed on it?" he added.

Mirto later expanded on Berry's concern stating, "I don't intend to play Mississippi poker with Mr. Greenstein on this matter. I know what Mr. Greenstein's up to and we intend to call his bluff. We're not going to be left holding the bag on this and get stuck building a permanent road."

After the request by Lawton to have the architect place the responsibility for the access road on the contractor and award the item as an alternate bid, he commented, "I want the contractor to do the minimum necessary to get his trucks in or out. If the contractor can unroll two rolls of chain link fence and get his equipment to the site, I'm in favor of it."

The legal questions will be researched by the firm of Draugelis, Ashton and Scully, because the school district's regular attorneys, Sempliner, Thomas and Guth, also represent Canton Township.

Chicago receives CETA appeal

CANTON—Trustee Brian Schwall's appeal concerning the possible misuse of CETA funds has arrived in the U.S. Regional Department of Labor office in Chicago, federal officials announced.

The appeal follows a complaint Schwall made to the Wayne County Manpower Center alleging the hiring of Bruce Phillips with Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) funds constituted a nepotism violation of the CETA act because Phillips' wife may have a hand in the hiring of CETA employees.

That complaint was found to be invalid by county officials who investigated the matter.

Marion Smith, associate regional manpower administrator for Michigan at the Chicago office commented, "The complaint has been received and turned over to our solicitor's office. He will determine if it is substantive."

The administrator added, "As of right now, we don't know if the charges are of a substantive nature. He will tell us if it is a bona fide complaint. If it is, we will investigate it fully and discuss it with the Wayne County people."

According to Smith, this is the first appeal complaint the regional office has received. As a result he was unable to say how long the investigation would take if it was found worthy of further examination.

Smith did say, however, "If the charges are substantiated, any sanctions we would take would be against our grantee, Wayne County. We have no direct dealing with Canton Township. However, the party in question (Phillips) would have to be removed from the program immediately."

Township Supervisor Dewey Henry and Mayor Lada of Park have arranged to go to Washington to get further questions answered. The trip is scheduled for April 3. The Cantonboard approved Greenstein's trip.

Commented the supervisor, "If we stay in the program and get the money, the county's part of the grant will cover the trip. We have arranged with Congressman Bill Ford (D-Taylor) to talk to HUD officials and White House staff about the block grant issue."

Plymouth Township officials are less confident about remaining in the program. On Tuesday they voted 4-3 to empower Supervisor J.D. McLaren to withdraw from it anytime. "He feels it is no longer in the interest of the township or its residents."

Originally a motion had been made by Trustee Gerald Burke and seconded by Trustee Richard Gornick to withdraw immediately. Said Gornick, "We had great trepidation over this before. I don't think it would be premature to withdraw now rather than waiting two or three weeks."

Helen Richardson, township clerk, responded, "I think we should cite specific reasons for withdrawing if we decide to."

McLaren added, "I don't know if the cost of administration of the program is greater than the benefits we will receive. The last word I got, we can withdraw from the program after the first year. But I don't know if that will be true."

He continued, "I am not sure I understand the program. There's a lot of confusion about it. Every time they meet, something else happens, and every time someone asks a question they get a different answer. The latest update is that we will receive $32,951 but next week it might be two dollars."

The City of Plymouth has yet to vote on the matter. Although Mayor McAninch is in favor of continuing the effort to get the federal grant, she has said that the city commission may vote to withdraw.

"A lot of people are very concerned about the grant and there is a possibility we might withdraw. I, personally, am not as critical of HUD. They get blamed for all the errors, and every time someone asks a question they have to develop more regulations. This program is no bed of roses to administer," she said.

"I will say this, however, the original intent of the Community Development Act of August 1974 (that created the block grant program) was to remove all the guidelines and stipulations for spending the money. Since then, HUD has placed more and more restrictions on the use of the money."

Presently, the county stands to receive $700,000 if HUD approves the application. An advisory council composed of 15 people, 10 representing the 19 municipalities, and five representing the county outlined the allocation of the funds at a meeting in Allen Park March 24.

The county will receive $40,000 to cover its administrative costs, including monitoring use of the money. Another $80,000 will be distributed to the various communities under the housing assistance plan for "upgrading of the housing stock," improving facilities for senior citizens, and code enforcement.

The remaining money is to be divided among the 19 communities on the basis of population. Two of the communities will receive $39,000, eight will receive more than $32,000 (including Canton and Plymouth Townships and the city of Plymouth) and nine will receive $26,000.

BLOCK GRANT funds are allocated to two types of communities, labeled vested and non-vested. Vested communities are those with populations greater than 50,000. They can apply for funds on their own. Non-vested communities, with populations of less than 50,000 must join together and apply in unison. In aggregate, these communities may have a population greater than 200,000.

In Wayne County 19 non-vested communities joined together at the end of the January in an attempt to get the money.

According to Gordon Ruttan, a county planner who has been working on the federal grant, the money is allocated to the non-vested interests on the basis of "a complex formula that takes into account the population, overcrowding, and the number of people below the poverty line."

Originally, the county application was not completed properly and the whole grant was thought to be jeopardized. But HUD granted an extension and the complete application is not due until May 15. However, SEMCOG needs several weeks to review the application first.

Should several communities withdraw from the application and should the aggregate population fall below 200,000, the whole grant would be forfeited.

Greenstein has indicated that Canton will use its share of the money for rehabilitation of a senior citizens activity center, a study for a civic center and the upgrading of the recreational park on Canton Center Road adjacent to the fire hall.

McAninch has said that Plymouth's share of the money will go towards upgrading dilapidated housing and stronger code enforcement.

Plymouth township is considering using the money, should it stay in the program, for a housing study and improvement of a recreational park and golf course.

Canton Township treasurer Carl Parsell commented, "If anything positive can be said about this, it is the joint effort of the county and the out-county municipalities. The relationship between the county and these communities has been strained at times, and we have really reached an understanding."

"The county in the past has always been big brother. But here we have had great cooperation and we have all shown a willingness to work together. I think the relationship between us and the county are greatly improved."

Schools say no to hockey again

PLYMOUTH—A battle over priorities marked a debate Monday, as another attempt to fund a high school hockey program in the Plymouth Schools went down to defeat.

With school board trustee Gary Mirto accusing several members of holding a "prejudice" against athletics, secretary Marcia Borowski countered with charges that varsity sports represented an "exploitation" of children within the district.

A motion by trustee George Lawton to fund the program at $10,000 was defeated by a 3-3 vote, with board president E. J. McClendon abstaining.

McClendon's abstention followed Supt. John M. Hoben's decision to withhold a recommendation on the program because of financial considerations.

LAWTON FIRST moved that the board trim three buses from its current replacement schedule, representing a savings of $41,000. That motion passed unanimously and was followed by Lawton's attempts to fund the hockey program at Salem and Canton high schools.

Debate was split between those board members who felt the money could be used better in classroom expenditures and those who felt the hockey program represented service to a substantial area of the district's population.

"For over a year now I've heard people on this board separate physical education and athletics from education. No one has mentioned the advantages of an athletic program in terms of learning to win and lose, teamwork, or the holding power of keeping kids in school," Lawton said. "I don't deny for a minute the importance of special education, math or science to the educational program, but I think there is a substantial area served by our athletic program."

VICE PRESIDENT Marda Benson argued "There is more than a substantial amount going to athletics compared to other areas." She was quickly followed by Borowski who said "The goals and objectives of this board say nothing about varsity competitive sports. Varsity sports are an exploitation of our children, providing cheap entertainment for adults at school district cost."

Mrs. Borowski's statements prompted trustee Gary Mirto to launch into a lengthy attack of those opposed to hockey as "intellectual hippocrites who won't say they don't like athletics."

Mirto's attack was followed by a substitute motion from Mrs. Borowski using the $10,000 for funding of girls' programs in gymnastics and golf. Her motion was backed by Mrs. Benson, but voted down by the other board members.

FINAL VOTING on the hockey program left McClendon abstaining with Lawton, Mirto, and trustee Carl Berry favoring the measure and Mrs. Benson, Mrs. Borowski, and treasurer Tom Yack in opposition.

The hockey program had been defeated by a similar vote on March 10, when the board also reached a tie vote on the program. At that time it was Lawton who abstained, asking that the administration make a recommendation. The program had been backed by State Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth) who had asked the board to consider high school hockey for the fall. Pursell was not present at Monday's meeting.

Hockey was introduced and approved by the board in 1973, but was later scrapped when a millage election met with defeat that summer.

Canton trade fair gathering steam

CANTON—Fifteen antique modified cars owned by members of the Ypsilanti-area Street Rods Club will be featured at the Belleville-Canton Chamber of Commerce spring fair scheduled for May 16, 17 and 18.

The cars date from a 1923 Model T to a 1955 Chevrolet, all with custom interiors, paint, and modified engines. The display will include pick-ups, touring cars and coupes.

The Street Rods Club is less than a year old and several of its members have shown cars at Greenfield Village and Cobo Hall.

The fair will be held at the 4-H grounds in Belleville, just off I-94. On Sunday, May 18, a speed and action horse show sponsored by the Mustalanti-area Street Rods Club will be held. Events will include keg-bending, speed and action, key-hole, cloverleaf, relay races and rescue races.

Spokesmen for the Canton Chamber say that rental space is still available for all area businesses, industry, arts and crafts dealers, and farmers who wish to display and sell their wares at the fair.

Those interested should contact the Canton chamber at 41652 Ford Road or the Belleville Chamber at 116 Fourth Street.

Egg tradition lives

tions, made from raw eggs symbolizing spring and birth, keep in definitely and are displayed in cabinets and in table centerpieces.

"Ukrainian women collect 'pysanky' as American women collect fine china," she explained. "Pysanky comes from the Ukrainian verb 'pysati' which means 'to write.' Every 'pysanka' carries a message.

"One with triangles, for instance, and reindeer and eternity curlicues would read, 'In the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit, I wish you an eternity of prosperity.'"

A triangle represents the Holy Trinity, Mrs. Bochensky explained, while a fish represents Christ, a fir tree health, a horse wealth, reindeer prosperity and never-ending curlicues denote eternity.

A native of the United States, Mrs. Bochensky is the daughter of Ukrainian-born parents. Her husband, John, left the Ukraine for America in 1949.

Besides "pysanky," the Bochensky family follows other Ukrainian Easter traditions. Mrs. Bochensky has already baked her special Easter bread, in readiness for a Ukrainian Easter basket stuffed with sausage, cheese and eggs, which will receive a Ukrainian Catholic blessing on Saturday morning.

An intelligent witch says

Casting spells works

Q. They tell me you are an intelligent, well-educated woman, and yet you believe in spell-casting. How can that be?

MONICA D., Birmingham

P.S. Can you send me a spell to make a certain man call me on the phone?

A. I like to think I'm fairly intelligent, and I do have a better than average education, and, yes, I do believe in spell casting.

What casting a spell usually amounts to is nothing more than the use of ritual and props, such as circles, dolls, candles and incantations to help you concentrate on the thing you want to happen. Once you create a strong enough visual image, you can project this thought to the mind of the other person. They act on it, producing the results you wanted.

Try these three little tests to prove to yourself how easy it is to send thoughts to others and make them react:

1. The circle test: Get behind someone who doesn't know you are watching him. Imagine a circle about the size of a quarter drawn on the back of his neck. When you can really see this circle, imagine a dot right in the center of it. Stare intently at this dot for a few seconds; that's all it will take.

The person will reach up and touch that spot because he will feel you looking there.

2. The stopping test: Choose a person you see walking down the street, preferably one who is walking alone. Stare at that person, and with all the mental energy you can muster, order him to stop. Shout at him with your mind, not your voice, and command him to STOP! He will stop and look all around, rather perplexed because he really doesn't know why he stopped walking. But you'll know: you made him do it.

3. The waking test: This test is the most surprising of all because it is one you work on a person whom you cannot even see. When some member of your family has gone to bed for the night and you know he is really sleeping, sit down in a different room, a place where you cannot see him. Picture him in your mind. Stare at that mental image you have of him and repeat his name over and over, mentally, not orally.

In a very few minutes, he will wake up and come out where you are, asking, "Did you call me? What do you want?" Your thoughts will penetrate his sleep and waken him.

After you have tried these little tests and proven to yourself how simple it is to direct thoughts to others, you will find it quite easy to picture a person going to the phone and dialing your number. Perhaps you may even wish to chant a little verse or incantation to enhance your mental image.

With proper intensity, you can send that picture to his mind so that he thinks it's his own idea and rings you up.

It really doesn't help with the phone bills, as you might think, however—at least not with my son. He always calls collect.

SEMCOG moves on waste law

Southeast Michigan Council of Governments (SEMCOG) will ask Governor William Milliken to appoint Oakland County Public Works Director R.J. Alexander to the Resource Recovery Act Commission.

The nomination was made at SEMCOG's recent general assembly.

The 11-member commission will be responsible for developing a solid waste disposal plan for the state.

According to Michael Glusac, SEMCOG executive director, SEMCOG will conduct a two-day seminar in the spring for technicians and public officials to discuss the impact of the law.

THE RESOURCE Recovery Act was sponsored by Sen. Carl Pursell (R-Plymouth). Under the Department of Natural Resources, the act will establish a solid waste plan coupled with a recycling program to recover metals, glass and paper.

The commission will also function as a watchdog over pollution caused by waste disposal facilities and will demand that municipalities demonstrate "reasonable progress" in developing their own waste disposal plans.

Nine of the commission's members will be selected by Milliken with consent of the Senate. The other two members are the Department of Natural Resources director and the state treasurer.

UNDER THE law's provisions, the state solid waste plan must be developed within three years.

The Stroller

An old grad's memories of Biggie

By W. W. EDGAR

It is always interesting to sit with a group of old grads, especially the football heroes of another day, and listen to them reminiscing of their college days and the moments that have lived with them through the years.

The Stroller was given this privilege the other afternoon while enjoying lunch with Marv McFadden, co-captain of the 1951 Michigan State University football team, and now the personnel director at the Chevrolet Spring and Bumper plant in Livonia.

"I'll never forget our game with Notre Dame in 1951," he said, "and the job 'Biggie' Munn did in getting us ready to meet the Fighting Irish."

(It was ironical that the group didn't learn of Biggie's death until the lunch period ended. But for a few moments of kindly reminiscing Biggie lived again right there in the dining room.)

"We had been reaching a peak all week," Marv explained, "and the thought of meeting Frank Leahy and his Fighting Irish, then the national champions, had us all on edge."

"CAME SATURDAY and after we dressed quietly for the game Biggie walked to the end of the dressing room and locked the door."

The former Spartan grid captain's face took on a serious look as he recalled "the most emotional speech I ever heard."

"With the door locked, Biggie stood in front of us and very bluntly remarked, 'You fellows are a bunch of nobodys. Nobody knows you.'"

"Pointing his finger at us, Biggie went on, 'You nobodys—just think of your kind old mother at home—the woman who possibly has worked day and night, and made sacrifices, hoping that someday you would be somebody. Just think of her.'"

From the expression on his face one would think that Marv was back in that dressing room, getting ready for the game.

"Then Biggie continued: 'And think of your father, struggling and saving, and dreaming—yes, dreaming of the day when you would be somebody and he could be so proud of you.'"

"Just think of him," Biggie shouted, and then sent us on our way."

Here Marv smiled as the memory came back. "You should have seen us. We literally knocked the door down and looked like a bunch of wild men as we passed the Notre Dame players."

"NO TEAM COULD HAVE beaten us that afternoon. If you recall, Dick Panin, the young lad from Detroit Denby High School, ran almost the length of the field for an early touchdown and we never were headed. It was a great victory—and as we came back to the dressing room amid all of the excitement, Biggie took the center of the room and shouted, 'Now you are somebody.'"

Plymouth library arrivals

R. Wright Campbell, "The Spy Who Sat and Waited." At the close of World War I, Wil Oerter is ordered to Scotland by German Intelligence to become a "sleeper"—a spy who sits and waits. For 20 years he follows his orders, fabricating a whole new identity for himself. Then the call comes from the fatherland. What can he do? He follows orders. As his loyalties split farther apart, he survives by performing his espionage activities almost by rote, without feeling and without questioning the consequences.

But finally he is faced with a terrible decision: The one act of espionage that will make him a German hero will mean the betrayal of his devoted wife and the violent death of his trusting friends. Can he follow orders? Should he perform his duty to the fatherland or to himself? This spy novel offers not only suspense, passion and plot, but also probing insight into the psychology of a spy—a look at a man caught in the impersonal master of international espionage.

Claude A. Frazier, M.D. "Coping with Food Allergy." "It is the purpose of this book," writes the author, "to make food allergy comprehensible and to demonstrate how, with a bit of effort, to avoid the unpleasant consequences of being allergic to food. Thus, I try to explain what food allergy is, how it works, what foods commonly cause what symptoms and the range of symptoms the allergic may suffer."

"I attempt to explain how all this may be avoided for young and old alike. And because this book is meant to be helpful, not only for the person who is allergic but also for the person responsible for someone who is allergic, I include recipes for allergy free menus."

"It was the most emotional experience I ever have had."

While in the reminiscing mood, we talked of other games in other places. McFadden recalled another incident that is now among his most cherished memories of his college football days.

It was the same year—1951—when the Spartans added the University of Michigan to their list of victims and did it in rather easy fashion.

"We had been told time and time again" Marv confided, "about the 55-0 drubbing Michigan had handed State in Biggie's first game as State coach in 1947 and we often vowed that the day would come when we could get even."

"This seemed to be the day. We got away to two quick touchdowns and were just raring to go. But as the score piled up, Biggie started substituting until I was the only first stringer left on the field."

"As the game ended we were furious. We had hoped to pile up margin larger than 55 to 0."

"WHY DID YOU DO IT?" we demanded of Biggie when we returned to the dressing room. We wanted to square accounts and run up a score Michigan wouldn't forget. Why did you do it?"

"Biggie just stood there, with a broad smile, and answered very seriously:

"I didn't want to make an ass of myself like someone else I know."

That was Biggie Munn and Marv McFadden, like many others who played for him, have good reason never to forget "the old coach."

Is it any wonder that friendly chats with old grads are always so interesting?

Village of Plymouth was 'Mudville' until 1908

(Part I)
For the first 46 years there were no sidewalks and no paved roads in Plymouth. In the spring and fall of each year, when the rains came, parts of Main Street were approached with caution by wagon drivers wary of mud-traps.

The first wooden sidewalk made its appearance in 1872. Fittingly, it was installed in front of the home of E. J. Penniman, one of Plymouth's Big Five. The Big Five—Penniman, George Starkweather, and three brothers, Siron, Josiah and Cassius Kellogg—then owned most of the land in Plymouth. Penniman was president of Plymouth's first bank, the First National, whose offices were in the rear of Roswell Root's Drug Store on Main Street.

The Penniman home was on Sutton (later Penniman) near the corner of Church Street, where the Catholic manse is now located. Eventually, the boardwalk was extended from Penniman's home along the north side of Sutton to Conner's Hardware store on the corner of Main Street. In a short time, wooden walks sprang up on all main thoroughfares in the village. Boardwalks kept Plymouth pedestrians out of the dust and mud for almost two decades. In the early 1880s, however, the walks began to succumb to the ravages of the Michigan climate. Women tore their long dresses on projecting nails, and men stubbed their toes on warped boards.

PLYMOUTH—PAST AND PRESENT by Sam Hudson

CEMENT CAME to Plymouth about 1891. Charlie Bennett, who was born in Plymouth in 1863, and who wrote an interesting account of the community as it was when he was a boy, said that L.C. Hough & Son, who ran the Plymouth Elevator (now McLaren's) bought some of the first cement to come into the United States from Germany.

L.C. Hough, W.O. Allen, T.C. Sherwood and E.C. Leach, all of whom lived along the western side of North Main Street, installed the first concrete sidewalks in Plymouth. Ed Hough, son of L.C., told Bennett that the cost to build the walks was 25 cents a square foot. They lasted more than 50 years.

Road paving in Plymouth followed paving of sidewalks by almost two decades. The need was obviously there long before action was taken. Charlie Bennett said the worst mud-holes on Main Street were at the corner of Main and Penniman, and in front of 173 North Main, near Central Middle School. At the latter, Bennett saw two horses and a farm wagon stuck in the mire until help arrived. He said the scene was not unusual.

THERE HAD BEEN pavement, of sorts, on part of North Main from 1850 to 1872, when plank roads ran from Plymouth to Detroit and to Northville.

The plank road movement had gained impetus when one of its ardent supporters, Governor Epaphroditus Ransom, signed a law in 1848, granting charters to private companies to build and operate the wooden roads. One Michigan historian attributes "the plank road craze" to the abundant timber in the state and claims that preoccupation with plank roads retarded the building of railroads in Michigan.

The 1848 law stipulated that the plank road had to be a minimum of 16 feet wide, eight feet of which was to be built of three inch planks. The planks were nailed to heavy stringers or sometimes laid directly on the ground.

The private corporations, awarded charters, established toll gates where fees were collected from those who used the road. The rate was one cent a mile for a one horse vehicle and two cents for a two-horse wagon.

Glenn students create model United Nations

By MARILYN FITCHETT

WESTLAND—You need not travel in international circles to enter into an argument about the relevancy of the United Nations; you only have to travel to John Glenn High School.

At Glenn, members of an advanced debate and English class have wrapped up two months of study on the United Nations which was topped off by participating in a five-day model United Nations Assembly in Ann Arbor.

The 14 students acted as delegates to Kenya and New Zealand. The model assembly called for students to vote on issues as they wished, without regard as to how the country they represented might have voted on the issue.

AS MEMBERS of the Kenya delegation, some students saw the UN's power as being in the hands of the so-called third world powers, which they believe are anti-United States.

"The third world powers vote as a bloc and have all the power," Richard Taracks said. "They run the whole show. The United States should get out of the UN."

His opinion was refuted by other members of the delegation.

According to Jim Colwell, peace can only be obtained through understanding, and the UN is the only place where world problems can be discussed.

Ray Stickney, who headed the Kenya delegation, said dissolving the UN would not be feasible.

"We've got too much money tied up in the UN. And the UN proved, in Korea that it can do the job. Now we're facing other crises in the Mideast and with the energy crisis.

"Where else can we go to start to solve the problems?"

John Etherington, who headed the New Zealand delegation, contended that too much dependency is put on the United States, but he was against withdrawing from the UN.

"Most of the financial burden is carried by the United States," he said. "We should be trying to achieve more equality by trying to convince countries like Russia of the advantages of supporting the UN."

Jeff Stratton saw the veto power of the five Security Council countries as defeating the purpose of the conclave.

"The bigger countries should be equal to the smaller ones," he said. "But I don't think they will go along with the idea of equality."

"The countries have to learn to be able to bargain without getting up and walking out. But the trouble is that the countries are too stubborn to listen."

AFTER MEETING in committee, the delegations voted on such issues as expelling South Africa from the United Nations, establishment of a Palestinian state with Jerusalem as an international city, and a women's rights proposal.

New Zealand abstained on the women's rights and South African issues, and voted against the establishment of a Palestinian state.

Kenya voted for South African expulsion and for the Palestinian state but voted against the women's rights issue. The students said they preferred voting on their own rather than following the voting patterns of the countries they represented.

"We voted the way we thought we needed to vote after doing the research," Ray Stickney said. "If we would have had to follow patterns, it would have been like feeding us through computer. It would have been like reading a script."

Desiree Carter summed up the feelings of the group by saying: "We didn't know that much about the UN—how it performed and what procedure was needed. Even if some of us didn't get a chance to voice an opinion, we really learned a lot."

Copies of the results of the assembly will be sent to the U.S. House of Representatives and the United Nations.

The trip was partially financed by the school district. The group also raised part of its funds by selling popcorn and clothing patches.

Arrangements were made through speech teachers Pat Nalley and Bruce Calhoun and principal Frank Higgins. World affairs teacher Don Pasche briefed the students on international affairs.

Other students who attended the session were Bill Spratt, Criss Broch, Ken Perkins, Debra Cheney, Maia Bergman, Randy Blausey, Craig Justice and Debra Anderson.

USING A NEWSPAPER to catch up on world affairs, John Glenn students who attended a model United Nations assembly make mental notes of what policies foreign countries are

CHARTER TOWNSHIP OF CANTON Board Proceedings

Section 4.24 Signs

a) Signs General

1. Measurement of Area of Sign

The entire area within a circle, triangle or parallelogram enclosing the extreme limits of writing, representation, emblem, or any figure of similar character, together with any frame or other material or color forming an integral part of the display or used to differentiate such sign from the background against which it is placed, excluding necessary supports or uprights on which sign is placed but including any sign tower.

Where a sign has two or more faces, the area of all faces shall be included in determining the area of the sign, except that which two such faces are placed back to back and are at no point more than two (2) feet from one another the area of the sign shall be taken as the area of one face if the two faces are of equal area, or as the area of the larger face if the two faces are of unequal area.

2. Permit Required

Except as otherwise provided in this section, it shall be unlawful for any person to erect, alter, relocate or maintain within the Township of Canton any sign or advertising structure, without first obtaining a permit from the Township Building Inspector. A sign not expressly permitted by Section 4.24 is prohibited.

(i) The Township Building Inspector shall provide application forms and may require of the applicant such information and descriptive material, plans or drawings so as to determine compliance with this and other applicable ordinances of Canton Township.

(ii) A permit fee shall be paid to the Township of Canton at the time the permit is applied for, according to a fee schedule adopted by the Township Board.

(iii) The provisions of this section shall not apply to the normal servicing, changing of an existing sign, message, nor to the cleaning of a sign, the changing of advertising on a sign specifically designated for periodic change of message without a change in structure such as a billboard, bulletin board of similar type of sign.

(iiii) Any sign that is moved to another location either on the same or to another premises, shall be considered a new sign and a permit shall be required for any work performed in connection therewith when required by this Ordinance.

(v) As an additional condition precedent to obtaining a permit the contractor, at his expense, shall provide and keep in force during the entire year, comprehensive general liability insurance in the minimum limits of liability insurance to bodily injury of one hundred thousand dollars for each person and three hundred thousand dollars for each occurrence; and in respect to property damage, fifty thousand dollars for each accident. Said policy of insurance shall be conditioned to hold the Township of Canton harmless of every damage of whatsoever nature, whether to persons or property, for which the Township may be held liable by reason of, or which is occasioned, by the doing of an act or the exercise of the privilege for which the permit was granted.

(vi) Abandoned Signs

(a) Deposit at time of application. The applicant shall deposit with the Township cash, as established by the Township Board the amount of which shall be sufficient to cover the cost of removing a temporary sign.

(b) The deposit will be retained by the Township throughout the life of the temporary sign and will be returned to the owner as soon as possible after the sign has been completely removed from the premises at the owner's expense.

(c) If the business or activity to which the sign pertains appears to be abandoned, the Township Building Inspector or Ordinance Officer shall exercise all reasonable means at his disposal to determine whether abandonment actually has occurred. If, after completion of his investigation, he determines that the business or activity has been abandoned for a period of ninety (90) days or more, the deposit will be considered forfeited and the Township will undertake to remove and dispose of the sign.

3. Material Requirements

Materials of construction for signs and sign structures shall be of quality and grade as specified by the Canton Township Building Code.

(a) Underground Wiring: Where illumination is desired, underground wiring shall be required for all signs not attached to a building.

(b) Hours of illumination: External signs may not be illuminated between the hours of 11:00 P.M. and 7:00 A.M. except those pertaining to a business open during these hours.

(c) Illumination of signs shall be directed or shaded so as not to interfere with the vision of persons on the adjacent highways or adjacent properties. Such determination shall be made by the Building Department.

4. Nonconforming Signs

(i) It is the intent of this section to recognize that the eventual elimination as expeditiously as is reasonable, of existing signs that are not in conformity with the provisions of this Ordinance, is as much a subject of health, safety and welfare as is the prohibition of new signs that would violate the provisions of this Ordinance. It is also the intent of this Section that any elimination of nonconforming signs shall be effected so as to avoid any unreasonable invasion of established private property rights.

(ii) No nonconforming Signs:

(a) Shall be changed to another nonconforming sign;

(b) Shall have any changes made in the words or symbols used or the message displayed on the sign unless the sign is designed for periodic change of message;

(c) Shall be structurally altered so as to prolong the life of the sign or so as to change the shape, size, type or design of the sign;

(d) Shall have the face or faces changed when such sign is not of a type of construction to permit such a complete change of face;

(e) Shall be re-established after the activity, business or usage to which it relates has been discontinued for ninety (90) days or longer; and

(f) Shall be re-established after damage or destruction if the estimated expense of reconstruction exceeds fifty (50%) percent of the appraised replacement cost as determined by the Administrator.

5. Signs Permitted in All Zoning Districts

The following signs are permitted in all zoning districts where the principal permitted use to which they are related is a permitted use in that district.

(i) Signs permitted and not requiring a sign permit:

(a) House numbers, name plates (apartments and professional) identifying the occupant or address of a parcel of land and not exceeding two (2) square feet in area.

(b) Memorial signs or tablets, names of buildings and date of erection, when cut into any masonry surface or when constructed of bronze or other incombustible material.

(c) Signs painted on or permanently attached to motor vehicles which are legally licensed and primarily used upon the highways for the transporting of persons, goods or equipment; provided that no such vehicle displaying a sign may be parked within the required setback of any business for the purpose of advertising any product or service of that business.

(d) Flags bearing the official design of a nation, state, municipality, educational institution, or noncommercial organization.

(e) Traffic or other municipal signs such as the following: legal notices, railroad crossing, danger and other emergency signs as may be approved by the Township Board.

(f) Community special event signs approved by the Township Board.

(g) Theatre-hotel marquee advertising, provided that said advertising is wholly contained within the basic marquee face.

(h) Gasoline service stations only may display the following special signs which are deemed customary and necessary to their respective businesses:

-- Customary lettering or other insignia on a gasoline pump consisting of the brand of gasoline sold, lead warning sign, and any other sign required by law and not exceeding a total of three (3) square feet on each pump.

-- A single non-illuminated double-faced sign per gasoline pump island, each of which shall not exceed four (4) square feet in area, may be placed on a gasoline pump island; said sign may extend a maximum of two (2) feet above the pumps.

(i) Signs not exceeding two (2) square feet which contain only noncommercial messages including designation of rest rooms, telephone locations and direction of door openings.

(j) Signs, non-illuminated, advertising land or buildings for rent, lease and/or sale when located on the land or building intended to be rented, leased, and/or sold and not exceeding five (5) square feet in area. Signs indicating that land or buildings have been sold are limited to thirty (30) days before being removed from premises.

(k) Institutional use bulletin board, non-illuminated, not exceeding eighteen (18) square feet in area or an overall height of six (6) feet, for churches, schools or public buildings or uses.

(l) Political signs permitted only in Residential districts. See Section 4.24 (b), (i), and (ii).

(ii) Signs permitted and requiring a sign permit:

(a) Institutional bulletin boards subject to the area, height and placement regulations for ground-pole or wall signs.

(b) Private traffic control signs which conform to the requirements of the Michigan Manual of Uniform Traffic Control Devices published in accordance with Section 608 of Public Act 300 of 1949, as amended.

(c) Freestanding Ground Signs

Signs pertaining to a real estate development designed to promote the sale of lots or buildings within a subdivision located within the Township, may be permitted on a temporary basis in any use district, but shall be located upon such land that is part of the subdivision or property being advertised for sale and shall be subject to the requirements and conditions of all applicable codes and ordinances of the Township, as approved by the Building Inspector, and a temporary permit issued. Such non-accessory signs shall not exceed one hundred and twenty (120) square feet in size nor an overall height of twelve (12) feet. Placement shall comply with the building setback requirements. A sign indicating a model dwelling unit's name may be permitted within the front yard setback provided the sign does not exceed two (2) square feet. Residential real estate subdivisions may be allowed two (2) directional signs within the Township by the Board of Zoning Appeals provided such signs are no larger than twenty (20) square feet and are located in such a manner as not to create a traffic hazard are not injurious to the surrounding neighborhood and are not contrary with the spirit and purpose of this Ordinance.

Setback Requirements:

All ground signs shall be setback, ½ of the distance required for building setback. A one hundred ($100.00) dollar deposit for each temporary sign to insure proper maintenance and removal shall be made to the Township to be reimbursed, minus administrative and inspection fee, as established by the Township Board, upon removal of this temporary sign.

6. Signs Prohibited in All Zoning Districts:

(i) The following signs shall not be permitted, erected, or maintained in any zoning district.

(a) Signs which incorporate in any manner any flashing or moving lights other than for the conveyance of non-commercial information which requires periodic change.

(b) Banners, pennants, spinners and streamers.

(c) String lights used in connection with commercial premises for commercial purposes, other than holiday decorations. Christmas tree lots and other temporary uses may provide string lights, not to exceed five (5) weeks in any calendar year, upon receiving a permit and being inspected by the Electrical Department.

(d) Any sign which has any visible moving part, visible revolving parts or visible mechanical movement of any description or other apparent visible movement achieved by electrical, electronic or mechanical means, including intermittent electrical pulsations or by action or normal wind currents, other than for the conveyance of noncommercial information which requires periodic changes.

(e) Any sign or sign structures which (a) is structurally unsafe, or (b) constitutes a hazard to safety or health by reason of inadequate design or fabrication, mounting, maintenance, dilapidation or abandonment, or (c) is not kept in good repair, or (d) is capable of causing electrical shocks to persons likely to come in contact with it.

(f) Any sign which by reason of its size, location, content, coloring or manner of illumination, constitutes a traffic hazard or a detriment to traffic safety by obstruction of vision of drivers, or by obstructing or detracting from the visibility of any traffic sign or control device on public streets and roads.

(g) Any sign which obstructs free ingress to or egress from a required door, window, fire escape or other required exit way.

(h) Signs which make use of words such as "Stop," "Look," "Danger," or any other words, phrases, symbols or characters, in such a manner as to interfere with, mislead or confuse traffic.

(i) Any sign or other advertising structure containing any obscene, indecent or immoral matter.

(j) Any sign unlawfully installed, erected or maintained.

(k) Any sign now or hereafter existing which no longer advertises a bona fide business conducted, or a product sold.

(l) Portable Signs

(m) Any sign, except traffic or other municipal signs, that is located in, projects into, or overhangs a public right-of-way or dedicated easement.

(n) Any sign that exceeds the height limitation of the zoning district in which it is located or if a wall sign extends beyond any architectural feature by more than one (1) foot.

(o) Roof signs: A sign that is mounted on or over the roof of a building or structure.

(p) Bill posting: No placard, poster, circular, showbill, handbill, cards, leaflets or other advertising matter whatsoever except as herein defined, shall be posted, pasted, nailed, placed, printed, stamped or in any way attached to any fence, wall, post, tree, sidewalk, pavement, platform, pole, tower, curbstone, surface or in or upon any casement, right-of-way or on any public property whatsoever in the Township of Canton. Provided, however, nothing herein set forth shall prevent official notices of the Township, County, State or Federal Government from being posted on any public property deemed necessary.

b) Signs Permitted by Zoning District

(i) Single Family Residential Districts

-- One (1) political sign, not exceeding five (5) square feet shall be permitted within the front yard setback of occupied single family lots not more than thirty (30) days prior to a political election and provided that such sign is located with permission of the owner and is removed by the owner within one (1) day after election.

-- For structures and uses other than residential, one institutional use bulletin board shall be permitted, not exceeding eighteen (18) square feet in area or an overall height of six (6) feet.

Placement shall comply with the Building setback requirements.

-- For single residential use, one name plate and set of house numbers identifying the occupant and address, not exceeding two (2) square feet in area.

-- Roof signs are not permitted in the single family residential district.

(ii) Multiple Family and Mobile Home District

-- Signs as permitted in b), (i) above.

-- Freestanding ground signs, not exceeding sixty (60) square feet in area or an overall height of six (6) feet. Placement shall comply with the building setback requirements, and shall be located no closer than one hundred (100) feet to any single family zoning district boundary.

-- Roof signs are not permitted in the Multiple Family and Mobile Home Districts.

-- One (1) political sign, not exceeding five (5) square feet shall be permitted within the front yard setback of occupied multiple of mobile home properties no more than thirty (30) days prior to a political election and provided that such sign is located with permission of the owner and is removed by the owner within one (1) day after the election.

(iii) Restricted Office District

-- Each office unit occupying a building is permitted one (1) sign, not exceeding two (2) square feet in area, indicating name of occupant and profession. For each office building one wall sign and/or one free-standing ground sign, not to exceed eighteen (18) square feet in area or six (6) feet in height, is permitted. Placement may encroach upon the required front setback, but shall not be less than fifteen (15) feet from the street right-of-way.

(iv) Commercial (C1, C2, C3, C5) Districts

-- Wall Signs

Each parcel of land shall be permitted one wall sign, except that when more than one ground floor business or usage occupies a single parcel of land each such ground floor business or usage have a separate sign.

A business center, however, shall be permitted only one (1) ground sign. In the case of reverse lots (lots held under one ownership fronting on two streets), the number signs shall be determined as though the lots were held by separate owners. In the case of a corner lot situated on two or more streets signs may be permitted on each street in accord with this Ordinance.

-- Area, Height and Placement of wall signs two (2) square feet of total signing per one (1) linear foot of building frontage. Maximum sign area of two hundred (200) square feet.

Maximum heights of sign not to extend above roof line.

Maximum extension from face of building not to exceed twelve (12) inches.

-- Ground Signs

A shopping center development when six (6) or more business establishments are contiguous or on the same parcel and under the same management, shall be allowed one (1) free standing ground sign, identifying the development and the establishments therein. No other ground signs are allowed.

-- Area, height and placement of ground signs. Sign surface area shall not exceed sixty (60) square feet, nor shall the sign height exceed twenty-five (25) feet. Ground signs serving shopping center developments may exceed sixty (60) square feet in area but not more than one hundred fifty (150) square feet.

Placement is permitted within the required building setback but not closer than one hundred (100) feet to any residential district boundary.

Window Signs

Window copy, painted or otherwise attached to the window surface, shall be limited in area to ten percent (10%) of the total window surface of the window to which the sign is attached.

Words or symbols three (3) inches or more in height shall be counted as an item of information.

(v) Industrial (M1 and M2) Districts

-- Wall and ground signs as permitted in commercial districts.

-- Billboards

No billboard or outdoor advertising display sign may be erected or maintained.

Savings Clause

-- This Ordinance and the various parts, sections and clauses are hereby declared to be severable. If any part, section or clause is adjudged unconstitutional or invalid, it is hereby provided that the remainder of the Ordinance shall not be affected thereby.

personnel; William Pearson, assistant supt. of physical plant and operations; Ray Rafford, assistant supt. of student relations; Richard Keilhacker, assistant supt. of business and finance; Warren Spurlin, assistant supt. of curriculum and Michael Washburn, assistant supt. of student relations.

Westland school board approves cost saving personnel changes

WESTLAND — Creation of a deputy superintendent position and an assistant superintendent of student relations are the highlights of a major reshuffling of the administrative staff by Supt. Timothy Dyer.

The reorganization is estimated to save Wayne-Westland taxpayers $176,890. The school board approved Dyer's plan at this week's meeting.

In presenting the reorganized staff plan, Dyer emphasized the cost saving through streamlining the total organization were realized by the elimination of 10 positions throughout the district. All persons presently holding these positions are either being reassigned to existing vacancies or are retiring from their positions.

Duties that have been performed by these individuals are being assigned to other persons, thus permitting the savings, says Dyer.

"No one needs to be told that we are in an economic crunch. Good management dictates that we tighten our belts while keeping the best interest of the kids in mind," says Dyer.

"This reorganization requires that fewer people must do more work. However, by streamlining the operation with greater emphasis on the team approach to administration, Wayne-Westland will continue to improve and to provide exemplary educational services at less cost."

UNDER THE plan the district will be divided into two divisions, each being headed by a deputy superintendent. The division of operations will be headed by Tom Blacklock, while the division of instruction will be headed by Dennis O'Neill.

Blacklock will be responsible for the general supervision of the department of business and finance and the department of physical plant and operations. He also will perform the district's legal affairs, coordinate central office management, chair administrative cabinet, supervise new construction, evaluate non-certified personnel, handle appeals from employee groups.

Under the previous administrative structure, Blacklock served as the sole deputy superintendent.

O'Neill will chair the administrative council, perform the duties as secretary of the board, direct the department of community relations, coordinate all citizen advisory councils and supervise the evaluation of all certified personnel.

Previously administrative aide to Dyer, O'Neill will handle special assignments as directed by the board of superintendent. He will be general supervisor for the departments of curriculum, employee relations and student relations.

The department of student relations, a first in Michigan, according to Dyer, will be headed by Ray Rafford. He will direct and coordinate all special education activities, youth employment services, child accounting attendance and the coordination of the various co-curricular programs of the district. Rafford previously was pupil personnel services director.

A new face on the central administrative staff will be Michael Washburn, serving as assistant superintendent for the department of employee relations. Presently the Stevenson Junior High School principal, Washburn will handle the administration of all union contracts and negotiations of those contracts.

He shall handle all grievances and daily business relationships between the board and the five employee unions. In addition, Washburn shall supervise direction of the personnel department, headed by the executive director of personnel Arthur Elander.

The personnel department handles all recruiting and hiring of personnel, plus the specific supervision of staff to determine that all employees are in compliance with state laws and the State Department of Education regulations.

THE SAVINGS comes in the elimination of nine positions, one retirement and a change of role in order to provide full state and federal funding for that position.

Positions eliminated are a custodial area supervisor, two secretaries, the director of safety and transportation, two assistant directorships, a consultant for food services, an attendance officer, and the combining of music and vocal coordinators' posts.

Helen Avery, director of elementary education is retiring. A supervisor for special education will be hired from federal funds.

The department of business and finance will be headed by Richard Keilhacker. Presently, assistant superintendent for business, he will be responsible for all business and finance dealings of the district.

The department of physical plant and operations shall handle all maintenance, and custodial assignments, plus safety and transportation assignments. This department shall be headed by William Pearson, who was previously assistant superintendent for general administration.

The department of curriculum shall continue to be led by Asst. Supt. Warren Spurlin. The department coordinates and supervises what is taught in school and how best education can be delivered to students.

'We're not in the nursing home business.'

Gordon Dougherty makes no apologies for that statement.

Nor should he. Gordon is in the business of retirement—he's resident counselor at Burcham Hills Retirement Center in East Lansing.

There, retirees 65 and over—many of them former professional members of the Michigan State community—continue life in their own style with independence and privacy.

The new five-story Center is located on a beautiful hilly 60-acre site in the northeast part of East Lansing convenient to town and campus and all that makes the university community an interesting place to live at any age. (Although many Burcham Hills residents maintain their own autos, the Center provides its own regularly scheduled bus service to downtown).

Twenty-one different size apartments are available ranging in size from 286 sq. ft. to 728 sq. ft.—an indication of the key to life at Burcham Hills: Flexibility.

Volunteer program expanded to aid poor

A new department has been created in Wayne County government to expand the coordination of citizen volunteers who assist social service agencies that help the poor.

The County Department of Volunteer Coordinator Programs was established by county commissioners Feb. 6 after operating successfully for 15 months under a federal demonstration grant which expired this month.

DURING ITS period of federal funding, the program recruited more than 250 volunteers for more than 200 of the 1,200 public and private agencies throughout Wayne County that use volunteer services.

Mrs. Anne duCongo, program director, estimates the placement of skilled volunteers has saved more than $200,000 that would have otherwise been paid by taxes or excluded from vital programs for the poor.

"We are fortunate and grateful for the opportunity we had to show an ongoing need to coordinate volunteerism. Even after these many months," says Ms. duCongo, "there are still a lot of persons who have skills and time they want to devote to needy causes but don't know where to begin."

"At the same time there are also many agencies that could use this skill and manpower, but cannot locate the willing individual."

"Our goal is to professionalize the bringing together of these two elements and create a better network of agencies to thereby generate more satisfaction for donors and recipients of these services."

AMONG THE groups that the coordinator program has provided workers for are Concerned Citizens Against Crime, New Detroit, County Substance Abuse Advisory Committee, the County Mental Health Program, and the Detroit Psychiatric Institute and Lafayette Clinic.

The program has also recruited high school students to tutor grade school pupils to improve reading and math skills.

The program will continue to host an annual awards ceremony honoring volunteers, adds Mrs. duCongo. "Last year, thousands of hours of time were contributed and we presented certificates of appreciation and engraved plaques for the outstanding persons, including a volunteer of the year, a junior and senior volunteer of the year."

"I consider this ceremony an important part of the program because these volunteers get no other reward except the sharing of their skills and the pleasure of helping others."

The department also publishes a tabloid newspaper about volunteer activity and has compiled a manual to assist social service agencies in organizing volunteer support.

Madonna sets summer term registration soon

Registration for Madonna College summer term courses will be held Wednesday and Thursday, April 3 and 4, from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. in the Madonna Student Services Center, 36600 Schoolcraft Road, Livonia.

Class schedules have been tailored to meet the needs of individuals with different kinds of personal schedules.

Some classes begin as early as April 28, others do not begin until June 30; the term ends July 23.

Tuition for enrolled students is $35 per semester hour of credit; high school students may enroll for $10 per credit. Senior citizen courses are offered free of charge.

CLASSES offered for teachers include: art workshop, psychology of reading, language development, management of information systems and games for the academically frustrated. The metric system and competency-based education will be subjects of two one-week intensive workshops.

High school juniors and seniors may accumulate college credit by enrolling in introductory courses in languages, chemistry, English, history, mathematics, music, political science or speech.

Tuition-free, non-credit courses for senior citizens will be offered in creative writing, improvisational reading and dramatics, nutrition, oil painting and the opportunities of retirement.

THREE religious studies workshops, featuring guest lecturers, will deal with introduction to scripture, death and dying, and religions in America.

Courses in business finance and personnel management are open to those enrolled in the business administration program or those employed in commerce and industry.

Karate will be taught Thursday evenings from May 1 through July 23 and may be taken for credit, or for $20 by community members.

There are also courses for firefighters and allied health personnel.

A complete course list is available at the college.

WSU sets registration

Final registration for the spring quarter at Wayne State University will be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, March 31, April 1 and 2 in the registration area of the Administrative Services Building, Cass and Antoinette, Detroit.

Students may register in alphabetical order from 8:30 a.m. to noon and 1:30-6:30 p.m. on each of the registration days.

Spring quarter classes will begin Monday, April 7.

Blood donors sessions set

Volunteer blood donors can make April appointments at two churches and at the Northwest Red Cross Blood Center.

Individuals may make an appointment to donate on Wednesday, April 23, at St. Dunstan Catholic Church, 1646 Belton Ave., Garden City, from 2-8 p.m.; or at St. John's Evangelical Lutheran Church, 35320 Glenwood Avenue, Westland, from 2-8 p.m. on Friday, April 25. Donors should call the churches.

Donations may also be made at the blood center, 32316 Five Mile Road, Livonia from 2-8 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Thursday; 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. on Tuesday and Friday; and 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Saturday.

editorial opinion

Ethics heart of 'Damman thing,' but laws are toothless and vague

Those who know Jim Damman breathed a big sigh of relief this Monday when Attorney General Frank Kelley released a report on the lieutenant governor's alleged conflicts of interest while a Troy councilman.

The opinion held that Damman was not guilty of criminal conduct, although it did conclude that he was a partner in a Troy land investment company that operated in secret and that he did vote as a councilman on matters in which he and his partners had a personal interest. Kelley, however, refused comment on the ethics of Damman's conduct during this period.

This newspaper's reporter in Lansing notes that both Damman and the man who picked him as a running mate, Gov. William Milliken, are adopting a "business as usual" attitude, although both are urging reform of the state's conflict of interest legislation.

Whether Damman will resign (as Tuesday's Detroit Free Press urged in a veiled manner) is, obviously, a matter for his own conscience. But the original disclosures in the press, followed by Kelley's report, have certainly damaged seriously Damman's future as a political force in the state.

IN THIS regard, it seems clear to me that Damman has had the misfortune to get caught in the heightened attention to ethics that has characterized the post-Watergate climate of opinion.

For many years now, these suburbs have had problems with conflicts of interest, particularly concerning real estate zoning and development.

The suburbs began as essentially unplanned communities, with large quantities of real estate gradually caught up in the booming growth of the past 30 years. It was inevitable that money was to be made in such situations. Real estate developer political contributions or land investors' sitting on planning commissions or city councils have been

by PHILIP H. POWER

the stuff out of which countless news stories in these suburbs have been written over the years. They defeated a long-time mayor of Livonia, they blew apart the old establishment in Farmington Township, and now they have damaged Damman.

Certainly, Damman was guilty of poor judgment, especially if he had any ambitions for further public office at the time he got tangled up with the Lincoln partnership. But just as certainly, many, many other people have made the same kind of ethical misjudgment and have not been exposed to the glare of harsh publicity and a post-Watergate environment.

All this is not to condone Damman's ethics; they must be scrutinized by any thoughtful person. What it is to say, however, is that Damman's problem is by no means unique in the suburbs.

WHICH BRINGS us to the shabby state of Michigan's conflict of interest law.

At present, the law forbids people in public service to also do business with the public body they serve and thereby engage in self-enrichment by self-dealing. But the law fails to set forth any ethical guidelines, such as proscribing a public official from voting on a matter in which he or she has a financial interest. Hence, the attorney general could rule that Damman was not in violation of the law, while withholding comment on the ethical questions involved.

Yet it is precisely the ethical questions involved in public service that are at the heart of the problem. Here the law is vague, and has no teeth and hence is of little help in cleaning up government.

The fuzziness of the law brings with it another danger. Any law that is vague can be interpreted in many ways by many persons; the risk of parochial interpretation of the state's conflict of interest law has prevented many businessmen or even moderately well-to-do persons from thinking of contributing their talents to the general good. "Why should I," they ask, "when the law is so vague that any ill-disposed lawyer could ruin my reputation by attacking me on conflict of interest grounds?"

It's a fair question, and it's a big problem. And somehow I'd like to have a law which permits people with some means to serve the public rather than deter them. At least, they wouldn't be as tempted to snitch as others might be.

TIPTOEING THROUGH THE TULIPS...

Remember Schoolcraft this election season

Tim Richard writes

With the great concern about state aid to K-12 school districts, local school tax issues and local school enrollment drops, it's easy to forget there will be another important election on our June 9 ballots.

Schoolcraft College is holding its biennial election for two seats on the board of trustees in an atmosphere so far devoid of controversy, rancor or burning issues.

And yet you know, if you think about it, that our two-year colleges in Michigan are drawing greater proportions of college students, that industry is looking to them increasingly as sources of trained workers, and that the general community is becoming more aware of the colleges' cultural thrust.

TWO TRUSTEES are to be elected. Ron Cowden, who's still in his 30s and was recently named the Livonia Jaycees' outstanding young man, is an excellent bet to seek re-election and a very good bet to win.

John LaRue has retired from his work and is retiring from public life, so he will have to be replaced. His calm, wise act will be a difficult one for anybody to follow.

The faculty strike of 1970 and the dirty word controversy of the Vietnam War days are over; there are scars but hardly deep wounds. If anyone but the women's liberationists has a chip on his (her) shoulder, he (she) is being quiet about it.

The political divisions on the board have been smoothed over and to a great extent resolved. It's almost easy to forget good ol' Schoolcraft College.

BUT NOW IS an excellent time for voters and civic groups to re-examine the Schoolcraft board.

One reason is the heavy dose of professional educators on the board—five of the eight trustees. Cowden is an administrator in the Livonia School District, Leroy Bennett a Livonia district teacher, Dr. Gerald Cox a Detroit district teacher, Nancie Blatt a former substitute teacher, Rosina Raymond, a former college teacher.

I choose not, in this space, to find fault with any of them, but the college could probably profit from other points of view. Treasurer Paul Kadish is an insurance man and a political expert of the most respectable sort, and trustee Arch Vallier knows construction and physical environment like the back of his hand.

But wouldn't a college like Schoolcraft benefit from a medical doctor on the board? A financial expert? A lawyer? A skilled tradesman with a union background other than the teachers unions? A commercial artist? A professional musician? A personnel expert from a manufacturing plant?

Hey, how about a person in the real estate business? I dislike seeing real estate persons on city councils, township boards and planning commissions, but I'll bet a year's property taxes that a real estate person could bring an interesting point of view to the Schoolcraft board.

We have five Livonia district residents, two from Plymouth and one from Garden City on the board. We deserve to hear from Northville and Clarenceville, too.

FINALLY, WE NEED some activity on the part of civic groups that don't have an axe to grind when it comes to hearing, interviewing and helping Schoolcraft candidates.

In the last campaign, while interviewing candidates prior to our newspapers' making endorsements, I was astounded to hear so many candidates answer questions on faculty relations in almost exactly the same words. At last, one candidate revealed why:

They had been "interviewed" by a Faculty Forum (teachers union) committee and thoroughly indoctrinated in the faculty's point of view. The Faculty Forum achieved a tremendous input into the candidates' brains, and it would be interesting to see some other group seek to do the same thing.

By the way, filing deadline for running for Schoolcraft trustee is Monday, May 12 at 4 p.m. Pick up your petitions and ground rules from the college secretary or your local school board office.

Computer revolution

Life will be easier, more complex

Several years ago I wrote a column about the future of the communications industry.

I told of how your television set would change into a combination of picture tube, copying machine and two-way computer system.

I described how future newspapers, instead of being printed in a newsprint and delivered by mail or carrier boy, would be transmitted into the home through the facsimile reproducer (the copying machine) and the customer would be billed through the computer.

I talked of how, with cable television, each home would have up to 82 channels available to them, some with the usual programming and some devoted to cultural or sports events.

A HOUSEWIFE would be able to do her grocery shopping at home, with one channel having a television camera go up and down the aisles of a supermarket, showing each item with a number. She could type out her grocery list by number on the computer, insert her credit card, and a few hours later her groceries would be delivered to her home.

New school buildings wouldn't have to be built because students would go to school only two or three days a week.

The rest of the time they would watch classes on their television set and be tested through the computer on what they had learned.

They would go to school only for consulting and peer relationships, such as athletics.

Eccentricities

by HANK HOGAN

AT THE TIME the column ran, many of the things seemed like fantasies, but look what has happened in the meantime.

You can now bank by credit card and computer if you want to use the little machines outside of some banks. You can borrow money, deposit checks, or withdraw money without involving another human being.

Supermarkets, with electronic cash registers, can check credit, prepare inventory lists, and eventually will be able to charge your bank account so you won't need checks.

Airline computers keep tabs on every flight and even now type your tickets.

We are part of a communications-computer revolution and are almost unaware of its happening because it is being introduced in little segments.

If my forecasts of a couple of years ago come true (and I believe they will, within the next 10 to 15 years), our life styles will be easier, but our lives more complicated.

FISH-lines help neighbors

Four FISH organizations—in Livonia, Plymouth, Redford Township and Westland—are in operation.

All provide neighbor-to-neighbor service when it is needed on a short-term basis. This kind of service involves emergency babysitting, transportation to a hospital, a hot meal in a crisis situation and other such assistance.

Each FISH group has a telephone number, and a call to that number will bring referral to one of the volunteers in a position to help.

If you need help, or if you would like to be a volunteer in this program, call the FISH number in your area.

The numbers are:

Murder hits the suburbs, but it's no time to lose faith

By STEVE BARNABY

Two Livonia residents stabbed to death, a shooting death in Garden City, a rape-killing in Farmington Hills—all point to the reality that murder as a way of life is here to stay in the suburbs.

The murders occurring this weekend in western Wayne and Oakland counties brought to mind a conversation with a suburban police official a few months ago.

"The suburbs have been lucky up until now, as far as murder is concerned. But one of these days it will start and never stop."

THE CHALLENGE to the suburbanite is how to deal with the grisly reality. Fear is the culprit which can destroy a community, when such incidents happen. After a series of murders, residents warily start shutting off themselves from their neighbors.

Families stop sitting on their porches during the warm summer nights. Park concerts become sparsely attended. Community activities lose their punch because residents imagine it is dangerous to go out at night.

Psychologists, sociologists and the whole range of experts who spend their time pondering such things have yet to figure out why communities are suddenly inundated with seemingly violent and senseless murder.

The usual platitudes are thrown around about the victims and suspects, but after so many years of watching the murder rate grow and grow on the other side of Telegraph, the words seem even more empty than they really are.

THIS ATTITUDE doesn't happen overnight. It takes years perhaps. But slowly the fear takes its toll, until the community becomes an area of fragmented families in worlds unto themselves. Community identity and pride are lost. Then residents start moving.

But suburbanites can fight this overwhelming urge to run. More than ever, residents must become united. Courage must prevail to resist the corrosive attitude which silently, yet effectively, invades the minds of residents.

Stay outside. Fill up those community activities. Keep the spirit alive in your community. For every step a community yields to fear, a leap is taken toward the eventual ruin of that same community.

School bloc pressures lawmakers

Editor:

I'm confused—or maybe amused. Government is supposed to be for the people, both state and nationally. Realizing that organizations contribute money toward campaigns of legislators, I also remember many saying those contributions did not amount to being "bought."

If that be the case, are our people in Lansing not forgetting their duty to the people by being pressured into delaying action on school strike legislation because the Michigan Education Association doesn't like its terms.

or because the school administrators don't like the terms of the proposal?

I'm sure we all don't like most of what's coming out of Washington and Lansing these days, but we learn to live with it and adjust. What makes our teachers so different? What makes legislatures so different?

READERS FORUM

Letters must be original copies and contain the signature and address of the sender. Limit letters to 300 words.

Both are actually the minority, and both actually work for the public, so why should the wishes of the public be set aside?

Face it—many school administrators are egotistically adamant about not giving in to any bargaining unit, and the MEA officials ranks today seem to be filling rapidly with the campus radicals of yesterday. So why not think of the people first—maybe just for a change?

JAMES T. FALK, Garden City

Paul Lutzeier is mourned

Editor:

It was sad news to hear of the death of Paul Lutzeier.

North Westland residents should remember him for his understanding and helpfulness in 1965 when we were embattled with the Livonia school board because new school boundaries were established and our children were bused to other schools.

My fond memories of him stem from his fascinating classes in "Adventures in Gourmet Dining" and his wine appreciation classes, which he conducted through the adult education classes at Franklin High School and the Mayflower Hotel in Plymouth. He was truly a warm, talented and very diversified gentleman.

MRS. CAROLYN M. KIEFER, Livonia

EDITOR'S NOTE: Mr. Lutzeier, former community relations director for Livonia School District, was recently killed in a traffic accident in Rio De Janeiro.

Vandals ruin a neighborhood

Editor:

I am writing because my husband and I are becoming very disgusted with what is happening in our neighborhood (Cavell Street, Livonia). We have never lived in an area where there is so much vandalism: theft and utter disregard for people's property and possessions.

I would say that almost, if not more than, 50 per cent of the front lawn lamps have either been broken or completely destroyed. Ours was twice.

Trees have been uprooted or broken in half. Cars have run on lawns and left deep tire marks. Statues are dumped over and sometimes broken.

Cars are stolen out of driveways, bikes out of garages. My husband had his attaché case stolen from his car. It contained work papers that will be almost impossible to replace in a short time. I could go on and on.

Where are the parents of these kids?

We, like the majority of families, are sick and tired of replacing and repairing so that they can be damaged again. How can we have any civic pride when we know it's all in vain?

Something has to be done and soon.

MRS. R. SABOURIN, Livonia

Re-employment theory flawed

Editor:

The Rozian theory (on re-employment subsidy proposal) is flawed. The feature story in the Spotlight section (March 20) describes a government subsidy program for the auto industry which would provide a $5,000 subsidy for every worker called back to work to build cars.

The theory has it that every worker builds 10 cars per year; therefore, the price of those cars can be reduced by $500, thereby promoting sales. Of course, the federal dollars expended would be recovered by the savings in welfare and unemployment costs, and the government comes out ahead.

As is true of so many of the irrational schemes promoted by well-meaning but incapable people to involve the federal government in matters best left to the marketplace, the scheme is flawed. I am reasonably sure that our legislators will perceive the non sequitur and dismiss the proposal forthwith; however, for the benefit of your readers, I should like to identify the flaw.

Assuming the questionable premise that this scheme would re-employ all of the unemployed automotive work force, the current production rate would increase from 7.5 million to 9.0 million cars per year, a 20 per cent increase in production and employment.

The subsidy must be divided among the total production of 9.5 million vehicles per year, not the additional 1.5 million units in order to be equitable.

This would result in a cost reduction of $100 per unit, not $500 as stated in the theory. Such a reduction would not generate the sales as did the $500 rebate program just completed. I suspect it would merely generate more cars for the inventory lots, unemploy those just recalled, and impose an additional burden to the already intolerable burden of the nation's taxpayers.

8 make dean's list

Among the 500 students making the fall semester dean's list at Albion College during the 1974 fall semester were eight area students.

To be named to the honor roll, a student must retain a 3.3 or better scholastic average, based on a 4.0 system, while carrying a full class schedule.

Named to the list were Barbara Vorech, senior, from Plymouth; and Garden City residents: Corali Cook, junior; Suzanne M. Nevill, senior; and Bruce M. Robinson, junior.

right) took their places in the board room. Hosting them were: (standing) Edward V. McNally, vice-president for student affairs; Thad E. Diebel, dean of applied sciences; and W. Kenneth Lindner, vice-president for administrative affairs. Not pictured is host Dave Heinzman, director of college relations.

Livonian promoted

Harold E. Sigwell of Livonia has been named general manager of the chemical processing division of Detrex Chemical Industries, Inc., Detroit.

Sigwell started in 1954 as an industrial salesman with Detrex and was appointed southwest region manager in 1961, general sales manager in 1966, and assistant general manager in 1974.

Kids' kite contest set for Saturday

Children ages six through 11 are eligible to enter Wonderland Center's sixth annual children's kite flyin contest at 11:30 a.m., Saturday, March 29.

The first 250 youths to register will be able to enter the contest. Registration begins at 11 a.m. in the Plymouth Road parking lot between gates five and six.

Kites and string will be provided by the center, but participants may bring their own kite tails.

Competition will be split into groups of six through eight-year-olds and nine through 11-year-olds.

The first to fly his kite the highest in three minutes will be a preliminary winner in his group of 15. Those winners will be rematched in a final "fly off." Winning and honorable mention trophies will be presented.

Assisting with the program will be Livonia Mayor Edward McNamara; Livonia Councilmen Robert Bishop, Jerry Brown and Peter Ventura; and members of the Livonia Jaycees.

Also at the center on Saturday will be Belgian draft horses, including a mare and foal. They will be shown daily from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m. from March 27-29. A handler will be in attendance to answer questions at the free display.

The center is located on Plymouth and Middle Belt roads.

Hamilton International reports net income gain

Hamilton International Corp. and its principal subsidiary, Alexander Hamilton Life Insurance Co. of America of Farmington Hills has reported a gain of 20 per cent in net income for 1974 as compared to 1973.

For the year ended Dec. 31, 1974, the company had net income of $3.2 million or 41 cents per share as compared to $2.6 million or 34 cents per share for 1973.

For the fourth quarter of 1974, earnings of $743,400 or 10 cents per share were recorded on revenues of $9 million. For the same period in 1973, revenues amounted to $8.7 million and earnings were $813,300 or 10 cents per share.

Revenues for 1974 were $37.9 million as opposed to $31.5 million for the previous year. Of the increase, investment income accounted for $1.2 million; group life, $408,000; and group accident and health represented $3.3 million of the total.

For 1974, the company also registered premium income of $28.7 million compared to $24 million in 1973. Total assets on a consolidated basis for the year were $170 million, compared with $158 million the prior year.

In other 1974 developments, the company's life insurance in force at the end of the year totaled about $1.3 billion compared to the 1973 figure of $1.2 billion.

Hamilton International is a holding company. Its life insurance company has more than 100,000 policyholders.

TOM BIRD

Speed, versatility and endurance mark this year's Observer and Eccentric all-area swim team.

While no school could claim rating as a state power, the area produced a variety of swimmers that would find a place on just about any team in the state.

Speed merchants such as Tom Bird of Garden City East and Glenn Petersen of Plymouth Canton each were clocked in a blistering 23.0 in the 50 yard freestyle sprint. Bird showed his versatility by being clocked among the top two freestylers in every distance, 50, 100, 200 yards and the grueling 500 yard event.

BUT FOR DIVERSIFICATION, few could match Garden City East's Mark Blanchard. Coming off a strong AAU background, Blanchard was literally Mr. Everything for the Tigers.

The final swim rankings show the East senior near the top in virtually every event. It is no wonder that East coach Ron Clifton says "we may never produce another swimmer of Blanchard's ability at East."

Plymouth schools, both Canton and Salem, dominate the team with Salem capturing three firsts and Canton two.

Salem relays also dominate the team with both firsts.

A rundown on the top individuals who make up this year's all-area squad follows:

100 BACKSTROKE -- BRIAN KENNEY -- As a senior, Kenney set a team record with a 59.0 time in his event. He also placed third in the Western Six league meet in the 100 yard backstroke.

100 BREASTSTROKE -- RANDY SKALSKI -- The senior Salem co-captain set a school record in the 100 breaststroke and made All Suburban Eight in the event. Skalski placed 10th in the Class A state meet.

200 INDIVIDUAL MEDLEY -- MARK BLANCHARD -- Blanchard was the most versatile swimmer in the area, ranking in the top seven of every event in which he competed. The senior co-captain holds four individual Garden City East school records. Blanchard took the Northwest Suburban crown in the 200 individual medley and placed 11th in the state. An above average student, Blanchard plans a college swimming career.

200 FREESTYLE -- RON FINLEY -- Finley was voted most valuable swimmer for the Salem squad and was also the high point scorer on the team, racking up 198 points. Only a sophomore, Finley lost just two dual meet races all season, one to state champion Marty Szuba of Dearborn.

50 FREESTYLE -- GLENN PETERSEN -- Petersen holds an incredible seven team records for Canton and also saw duty as a member of two record setting relay teams. The senior freestyler was league champion in the Western Six in the 50 freestyle.

100 FREESTYLE -- TOM BIRD Bird was the best swimmer in the history of John Glenn. He captained the Rockets and holds six school records.

With a 3.9 grade point average, Bird has his choice of colleges and will probably enter Dartmouth this fall. He was the 50 yard freestyle champ of the Northwest Suburban League.

DIVING -- BILL MARKS -- With a total of 259.35 points, the Salem co-captain set a school record. He placed third in the Suburban Eight and was named all-league. He finished 10th among Class A divers this year.

100 BUTTERFLY -- DAVE WALKOWIAK -- Walkowiak has been out of action lately and in the sickbed, but while he was at it for Bentley, he was one of the areas top flyers. Setting a tough pace of 58.5 in his event, Walkowiak also participated on the Bentley 200 yard medley relay team which turned in a 1:47.5 clocking -- third best in the area.

500 FREESTYLE -- STEVE KIRSCHKE -- The longer the race, the better Clarenceville's Kirschke likes it. As the area's top distance man, Kirschke placed second in last week's AAU 1650 freestyle event and was also named Class B All-State for his efforts in the state meet. Only a junior, he will be back for another crack at the state title next year.

But see needed changes

Coaches hail state grid tourney

Area prep grid coaches hail the recently approved Michigan High School football state tournament as "an idea whose time has come."

Of the five coaches contacted, none believed that such a tournament should not be implemented although each had suggestions or reservations about the tournament as it is structured.

On March 21, directors of the Michigan High School Athletic Association announced approval of a state football tournament which had been tried out only on paper last year.

Under those plans, the state would be divided into four regions with one school from each region each class being selected on a point system to represent the region in a one-game knockout tournament.

Michigan high schools are divided into classes of A, B, C and D depending on their enrollment with A being the largest and D the smallest.

Under the point system, points would be given for both offensive and defensive efficiency, win-loss record, caliber of opposition and record of opposition.

Under the system, unbeaten Plymouth Salem would have qualified for the state tournament from its region as it had the most points among Class A competition.

However Livonia Franklin, equally unbeaten and Birmingham Brother Rice also unbeaten and awarded all major newspaper and wire service mythical state championships, would not have qualified because both were in Salem's region.

THIS POSSIBLE INEQUITY which creates the possibility of unbeaten teams being left out of the tournament, drew the most criticism from coaches questioned including Salem's Tom Moshimer.

"I think the tournament is a good thing, but I think certain things in it deserve some thought," he said.

"I'm particularly concerned about only four teams getting in from each class. I think they should look into the possibility of extending the tournament one week and taking eight teams into it. I like the idea of taking the top team from each region and the next four top point getters--regardless of region."

Livonia Stevenson head coach Jack Reardon echoed Moshimer's sentiments.

"The only problem I see with the tournament is that there were three unbeaten teams in our area and only one of them, Plymouth Salem, would have gone into the tournament. You just don't come up with an unbeaten team that often."

"I would like to see some provision for getting unbeaten teams into the tournament. If that means extending the season another week, maybe that's what they ought to do. If they're going to do this thing, they should do it right."

WHILE THURSTON COACH Don Riehl favored the tournament, he said changes might have to be made in its format.

"I think it's going to have to go a year or two to get some of the bugs out of it and I don't think they'll ever get it perfect," he said.

"In our area, I thought Franklin had a great team and they wouldn't have qualified. As it stands now, you're not necessarily going to get the best team from each region, but you will get a representative team and that has to be better than a mythical championship."

Franklin Coach George Lovich, said he would like to see the field expanded and some of the criteria changed for giving points.

"My own personal recommendations were to change the system to include eight teams with the four regional winners and the next four highest point getters getting in," he stated.

"Also I would like to see certain changes in the point system. Class B teams would receive more points for playing Class A teams and Class A teams were not penalized so severely for playing Class B schools."

Lovich added that although he favored increasing the field, thus adding one more game for the participating finalists, he favored moving the season up one week rather than extending it further into November.

"And I don't think that practice time should be increased accordingly. We already put enough pressure on the kids," he said.

GARDEN CITY WEST HEAD man Charlie Elmquist said he had certain reservations about the tournament although he favored it over-all.

"I think it's good for football, but I'm concerned about the effects it might have on athletes who participate in both fall and winter sports and would have to report even later for the winter sports."

"Another reservation I have concerns its effect on Class A schools who are locked-into league schedules with Class B schools. I think they are being unduly penalized.

"There has been talk of change in this area and I feel there will be a change," Elmquist said.

Only time will tell if the Michigan High School state football tournament will, on the whole, be a winner or a loser.

Optimists plan golf kick-off

The Livonia Optimist Club will kick-off its 1975 golf season with its annual hole-in-one contest at Whispering Willows Golf Course, Eight Mile and Newburg, Livonia.

The contest will run from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday April 5 and Sunday April 6.

Prizes of accessories will be given to the most accurate golfers and profits will be used to sponsor Optimist community projects.

In The Pocket.

By W.W. EDGAR

Since the women have taken a more prominent role in bowling, they are outdoing the men when it comes to showing courage in their assault on the pins.

For years it had been the custom that when a bowler left up a split he concentrated on making only one or two pins. This was done on the theory that it was better to get a few pins than to miss entirely.

Even the most experienced of the male sharpshooters explained that many games-- and even titles-- are decided by a single pin. For that reason they guarded against what is called an 'open' frame.

From all appearances this season the women will have none of that. They're showing their courage by going for the conversion, rather than playing it safe.

A great example is the fact that three women in the last month have converted the "impossible" 4-6-7-10 and not a single instance of a man accomplishing the feat has been reported.

ADDITIONAL EVIDENCE of the women's approach to gambling on open frames was furnished this week at Mayflower Lanes where five women joined the conversion club, while only one man came up with the spare in the clutch. He was Bruce Griffin who toppled the 2-4-6-7.

Meanwhile, Rita Biegas made the 2-4-7-10. Kay Stanley did the same with the 6-7-10. Sandy Cebulski converted the 4-7-10. and both Jo Coon and Carol McIntosh knocked over the 2-10.

When it came to scoring, however, Tom Sewiuk was high for the week with a 650.

THE SHARPSHOOTERS had another big week in the Westland Bowl Classic where Frank Ashcraft, a 20-year-old lad, and the veteran Bob Chamberlain crashed the 700 barrier.

Ashcraft, who has been on a 'hot' streak, put together games of 247, 251 and 234 for a 732. Chamberlain accomplished the feat by linking counts of 223, 269 and 221 for 713.

Among the other high scorers were Les Crawford with 681, Bob Garrett with 677, Edgar Wiley with 671 and Ray Williams with 663.

VIOLA WALTON hit the high point of her bowling career in the Toast and Coffee League at Merri-Bowl when she fired a 288 game to establish a league mark, but she will never forget the sight of the No. 5 pin.

After opening with a 156 game, she came back in the second with a string of 10 strikes. Then, on the 11th ball, she left up the No. 5 pin and had to settle for a 288, a new high, and closed with a 209 for 653.

The juniors also had a big time at Merri-Bowl where John Simigian, a 138 average bowler, had a 275 game in a 591 series and Ferl Thomas contributed a 123 triplicate.

Joining the pacesetters, Harvey Shaw, a 183 average bowler, posted a 289 in 637 to earn top place in the Michigan Bell League and Fred Forystek had a 258 for high game in the debonair mixed circuit.

FANTASTIC FINISHES still are the order of the day at Bel-Aire Lanes.

This week the focus was on the Classic where Tom Ranes posted a 682 series to nose out Carl Hunt by a single pin. Tom started with a 256 and followed with 214 and 212 for his big count while Carl opened with a 226 and added counts of 230 and 235 for 681. Not far behind the leaders Jerry Smith finished with a 664 for third place.

In the businessmen's league, Greg Hatter showed the way with 681 that included a closing game of 256, and Bob Parker took the runner-up position with a 636. In the senior house league it was Bill Cooper at the head of the parade with a 658 that gave him a six pin margin over Jerry Conflitti.

JAN VANDERWILL returned to the winners circle in the noon classic at Farmington Lanes, thanks to a 246 game that gave her a 601 series.

The best score of the week came in the Thursday Nite League where Tex Lebourdais had a 237 game in a 656 series.

Julie Reckert showed the way to the junior girls with a 171 in 494 and Sandy Wensen took high game with a 199.

WHEN IT COMES to consistency, it would be difficult to beat Arlene Jasin in the Coffee and Toast league at Plaza Bowl. Two weeks ago she turned in a 585 series and came right back this week with a 256 in 583.

The pacemakers at Plymouth Bowl included Marcie Hilbert who topped the ex-newcomers with a 276 game; Sally Cross, who showed the way to the Northville Commons group with a 232 and Jean Cecil who linked game of 256, 180 and 147 for 563 to take top honors among the Holiday girls.

THEY HAD ANOTHER close finish in the mixed league at Garden Lanes. When the final pin fell, Larry Coy Jr. was in the lead with 617, Andy Neil was right behind with 614 and John Fleming landed third with 612.

THE ELKS league at Country Lanes got a new leader when Dennis Kubit went away above his average with games of 236, 220 and 209 for 665.

ELLIE WILKINS established a new high mark in the Livonia Ladies Classic when she turned in a 595-60-655 series to take top place in the weekly battle. This count beat her former mark by 10 pins and included a high single of 202-20-222.

In the other games, Lois Merriman took the first with 212-25-237 and Doris Macorkindale took the second with 201-34-235.

The Green Thumb

By GEORGE ABRAHAM

If you have some shady spots and want a splash of color, there are three good plants you can try: impatiens, coleus and begonias. These are shady ladies well worth growing. Of these plants, impatiens (pronounced im-pay-she-enz) has gained quickly in popularity. Day plants not only work out well in the shaded areas in a suburban garden, but also take conditions of extreme air pollution, and are tough enough to provide a continuous show of color for many months.

It's time to be sowing seed of impatiens, and there's a trick in getting a good catch.

FIRST, impatiens should be exposed to light but not direct sunlight. That means you should not cover the seed after sowing. Fluorescent lights aid germination.

If you want impatiens for house plants, seed should be started as early as February. For outdoor plants, wait until April to start. Seed started too early will produce plants that are tall and spindly. If yours get too tall, pinch them back before setting them out.

TRICK NO. 2 is to start the seed in a loose mixture, using one of the soil-less mixtures such as Jiffy Mix, Pro-Mix, or similar materials. Or you can use a mixture of one part sand and one part peat.

To keep the plants from becoming overgrown and poorly flowered, go easy on the water, and plant food.

Cooler-grown plants flower earlier and are shorter than those grown warm. Day length (about nine hours) makes impatiens flower earlier on a shorter, bushier plant than a 12-hour day at 78 to 80 degrees F.

IF YOU'RE SHORT on garden space, plan on growing tomatoes and other vegetables in tubs and other containers. It's the perfect answer for growing crops without a garden. You should start collecting tubs, half-barrels, boxes, etc. so you'll have them on hand when a busy planting season rolls around.

Besides tomatoes, you can grow cucumbers, pole beans, squash, gourds and other climbing plants.

They'll need a support such as wire, trellis or string.

Free: Send me a self-addressed, stamped envelope and ask for a copy of my bulletin, "How to Grow Tomatoes on a Corset."

GREEN THUMB CLINIC: "Our cyclamen plant has finished blossoming. Can it be kept over for another year?"

Answer: yes, let it dry off, and place it in a cellar and leave it there all summer. In fall it will automatically start growing. At that time, scrape off an inch or so of soil, add new mixture, water well, and grow in a bright window. Cyclamen likes it cool, especially at night.

Plant of the week

Grevillea robusta or silk oak, a member of the Proteaceae family, is a rapid growing ornamental tree. Easy to grow, this houseplant will withstand neglect and thrive in less than ideal conditions.

There are over 200 species of Grevillea, most growing freely in Australia. Grevillea robusta is sometimes used as a street tree in states with warm climates but will not withstand Michigan winters.

G. robusta grows to the height of a large tree but can be trimmed and shaped to keep it within the limits of a houseplant. It has finely divided, fer-nlike foliage growing alternately, usually in pairs.

G. ROBUSTA produces flowers in its natural state but does not flower indoors when kept small. It is most often used as a houseplant at a height of one to five feet and is suitable for a decorative planter.

Horticulturists at Michigan State University say the following conditions are ideal for active growth of G. robusta. Remember that these are ideal conditions and G. robusta will withstand hard usage and neglect.

SOIL should consist of equal parts perlite or vermiculite, garden soil and peat or humus. Purchased potting soil can be used successfully.

WATER—Drench the soil thoroughly but allow it to become moderately dry between waterings.

TEMPERATURES should range between 50-55 degrees F at night and rise to 70 degrees on a sunny day.

Bond denied for murder suspects

Defendants in the Jan. 28 shotgun slaying of Canton Township resident Terry L. Buchman, 20, were arraigned before Circuit Court Judge James N. Canham Tuesday at the County Prosecutor's Office.

The three defendants, Barry L. Provow, 27, his wife Leslie, 18, and Robert Umney, 22, were denied bail in what Judge Canham termed the "classic criteria of a case where bond should not be granted." They were remanded to the Wayne County jail.

IN APPLYING for the bond, defense counsel for Barry Provow, Michael Pantel, called the case against his client one based purely on "inference and innuendo."

Gary Davis, attorney for Leslie Provow, 18 joined in the plea and said that his client wasn't shown to be directly involved.

The arraignment followed a preliminary examination before Judge Dunbar Davis in the 35th District Court in Plymouth.

In binding the defendants over for trial, Davis said the evidence presented him showed "probable cause that a crime had been committed and that the defendants were responsible." He termed the murder "an easy case and a gangland type execution."

Counsel for Umney, Plymouth attorney Robert Delaney did not join in the motion for bond; but he did request the pretrial hearing be delayed so the defense could study the transcript of the preliminary exam. Judge Canham granted the delay after Assistant Wayne County Prosecutor Murray Slomovitz consented.

Delaney explained the defense lawyers had not had time to study the transcript from the earlier hearing.

DAVIS MOTIONED that Leslie Provow be given prompt medical attention because she might be pregnant. Canham advised the sheriff of the problem and said the matter would be attended to.

The pretrial hearing is currently scheduled for April 8 and Delaney indicated the trial would probably begin "some 30 to 60 days after the pretrial hearing."

According to Delaney, the hearing will be devoted to discussing evidence, witnesses, problems such as time, and consenting between the attorneys to what is admissible evidence.

He said, "While it will be used primarily for the attorney to discuss the evidence, it is possible the attorneys might agree to a lesser charge for the defendants."

MUCH OF THE COUNTY'S case against the defendants is based on the testimony of Lloyd Cash, 20 who allegedly saw the murder.

During the preliminary examination he said he saw Provow shoot at Buchman with a .22 caliber rifle and then saw Umney and Provow, pursue the fleeing Buchman.

Police found buchman's body in a field at the corner of Joy and Ridge roads. He had been shot once in the head with a shotgun and once through the chest with a .22 caliber weapon.

Dr. Sawati Kanluen, who performed the autopsy, said that either one of the shots would have been fatal as the .22 bullet had gone through both of Buchman's lungs as well as his heart.

Several days after the murder, the Provows and Umney were apprehended in Wyoming by members of the Albany County Road Patrol.

Edgar featured in Detroit

PLYMOUTH- The saga of W.W. "Eddie" Edgar, who at age 77 is the dean of reporters in Michigan, will be told by Sam Hudson, well-known Plymouth historian and author, in the April edition of The Detroit magazine.

The magazine will hit the newsstands early next week. In his story Hudson relates the story of the rotund Edgar who started in the newspaper business 55 years ago and has built a reputation as a writer and story teller second to none in the Midwest.

Edgar who never attended college and never finished high school started as a reporter back in his favorite Pennsylvania Dutch country back in the late 20s and worked for metropolitan dailies until his retirement in the early '60s.

That's when he joined the staff of the then Observer Newspapers and has served as an editor, special columnist and a roving editor since.

Hudson's colorful story of a colorful character is worthy of the attention of all readers in this section of the state.

Hilltop gets nod on liquor

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—The availability of liquor licenses is dwindling in the township, and only one is left.

The township board of trustees voted 6-1 Tuesday to place the class "C" license request of Daniel Ross, who will take over as manager of the township-owned Hilltop Golf Course on April 1, on the list of requests "above all others."

Besides reducing the township's number of licenses to one, the board expanded the request list to about 15 by adding the request of Nicholas Kanakis, who plans to open a Clock Restaurant at 9468 Main.

Trustee Gerald Burke cast the one dissenting vote against placing Ross's name at the top of the list.

"I'm not 100 per cent sure of delegating a liquor license to a lessee of township property," Burke said.

Township Clerk Helen Richardson said Ross has already applied to the Michigan Liquor Control Commission for the class "C" permit, allowing beer, wine, and liquor to be served by the glass.

Current golf course manager Chris Burghardt, whose lease expires on April 1, said he will take the resort and tavern license he holds to the golf course he owns near Battle Creek.

Kanakis, who plans a May 1 grand opening for his restaurant, requested the class "C" liquor license for competition reasons.

"I believe it would be a help to my business, because the competition is getting stronger and stronger," Kanakis told board members. "I'm not trying to make a bar out of it, but some people like to have drinks with their meals. I think I'll need it to survive."

Kanakis cited a Clock Restaurant in the Nine Mile-Woodward area that has a liquor license.

The vote on Burke's motion to add the Clock's name to the list of liquor license requests was 5-2, with Supervisor J. D. McLaren and Trustee Richard Gornick casting the dissenting votes.

"I don't think a liquor license belongs in that kind of restaurant," Gornick said.

2 are named to school staff

PLYMOUTH— The Plymouth Community School Board has made two additions to the district's administrative staff.

Named as data processing coordinator was David H. Ode, a 10-year veteran in the data processing field. Samuel D. Ulsaker will take over as the district's director of research, program planning and federal projects on April 1.

Ode, who attended Delta College and Western Michigan University, has worked for ACTS Computing in Southfield as an operations supervisor and for Federal Mogul Corp. as supervisor of data processing, scheduling and tape library.

Ode and his wife, Gayle, live in South Lyon with their two children. Ulsaker has held the posts of teacher, principal and director federal programs in the Jackson Public School District. He has offered technical assistance to school districts in 10 states and to state departments of education in Alabama, Texas and Michigan.

Ulsaker earned a bachelor of science degree from Eastern Michigan University and a master of arts degree in education administration from Michigan State University. He has completed additional work at Wayne State University and the University of Michigan.

Ulsaker and his wife, Melva, have five children.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS CITY OF PLYMOUTH, MICHIGAN

At a meeting of the Zoning Board of Appeals to be held in the Commission Chamber of the City Hall on Thursday, April 3, 1975, at 7:30 P.M., a public hearing will be held to consider the following:

APPEAL NO. 75-4 - JOHN CULOTTA (representing Ralph and Mabel Lorenz), 491 S. Main Street, Plymouth, Michigan, requesting permission to temporarily relocate a Non-conforming 1 & 2 story frame house (527-531 S. Main Street) from one location on the parcel of land to another location on said parcel, in a B-3 (General Business District) zoning, which is in conflict with Sections 5.193(3)(b) and 5.193(4)(b) of Article XV-GENERAL PROVISIONS, Chapter 52, Zoning, of the Plymouth City Code. Sections 5.193(3)(b) and 5.193(4)(b), respectively, provide: "No such non-conforming use shall be moved in whole or in part to any other portion of the lot or parcel occupied by such use...unless approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals" and "Should such structure be moved for any reason for any distance whatever, it shall thereafter conform to the regulations for the district in which it is located after it is moved." Said structure is now used as an apartment building.

All interested parties will be given an ample opportunity to participate in the hearing and, at the close of said hearing, all comments and suggestions of those citizens participating will be considered by the Zoning Board of Appeals, prior to rendering its decision.

Ice sculpting— a lost art revived

A "lost art" gets revived every so often by the culinary arts students of Jim Van Buren at Schoolcraft College.

The rarely seen art is sculpting statues and designs from 400-pound blocks of ice. Last Saturday, Schoolcraft students were joined by students from Henry Ford Community College, the Southwestern Oakland Vocational High School and Detroit Cady High School.

One of the Schoolcraft students was Steve Sechler, whose family owns the Tack Room, which provided 5,200 pounds of ice for their efforts. Work was done in the restaurant's parking lot on Seven Mile west of Haggerty Road in Northville Township.

Conditions were far from ideal. A temperature in the low 30s and a stiff west wind sweeping up the hill turned hands and fingers red with cold.

"A 20 degree temperature is ideal," said Van Buren. "In weather well below zero, ice is brittle. At this temperature, it's spongy. It's a unique material, like marble.

"It doesn't take long to learn, if a student has any natural talent. It usually takes 10 pieces before they come up with an ice sculpture that's perfect or acceptable."

Works stand about four feet high. Tools range from chain saws to an instrument that is part fork, part rake. Sculptors use drawings as models.

There were problems. A fish broke, and its remnants became a rabbit. A pair of kissing turtle doves looked delightful perched on a heart, but one dove broke when the block was moved. The melting action on an eagle's beak made the nation's bird look as if it had a runny nose.

Many works, however, made it to completion and display. Had the Michigan weather been more cooperative, there might have been a juried competition. Maybe next time...the art isn't going to die at Schoolcraft.

General Motors urges national energy policy

By DENNY COFFMAN

DETROIT—Gabriel N. Tiberio, director of energy conservation for General Motors Corp., is a little irked.

"What irritates me is that the automobile industry has become the target of those who talk about saving energy," says Tiberio.

"But, it is the American lifestyle that has to change, because energy is no longer a luxury but a necessity."

General Motors gave tangible acknowledgement to the "energy crunch" in late 1973 when it appointed Tiberio energy director to head up a special "energy section" on the 11th floor of the GM Building in Detroit.

THE CONCEPT is not new to the company, however; as early as 1956, one of the company's plants stressed the need to save electricity and natural gas.

Tiberio, too, has been in and out of corporate programs to either reduce pollution or save energy.

Only this time it's different. GM's top brass, including E. M. "Pete" Estes, president, have been calling for a national energy policy.

The corporate staff is acquiring documentation of plant level achievements in energy conservation, including the amount of gas, oil, coal or electricity saved—and passing the information along to each of the 150 GM plants across the nation.

GM engineers are at work developing new technology aimed at the utilization of relatively plentiful resources, such as coal.

CASE HISTORIES are legion, where plants used better insulation, better heat transfer or better heat treatment in order to save millions of Btu's of power. The energy section has acquired documentation showing 200 cases of conservation that have saved about 2½ trillion Btu's in barely one year (125,000 Btu's equal a gallon of gasoline).

The savings, though, are not simply for idealistic reasons. For the world's top company, "there has to be an economic payoff," says Tiberio.

The "payoff" has to be in dollar terms, he says. But more importantly, without the company's conservation effort, many plants would have closed for lack of fuel.

"If some of our plants continued to use the same amount of energy today they used in 1973, they could not function because of tighter controls on such fuels as natural gas."

BUT, he says, GM's conservation program may be self-defeating.

While GM is saving fuel, he contends, other companies and individuals are making little or no effort at all. That means that a fuel, such as natural gas saved by GM simply goes to someone else, who consumes it as though there were no limit.

In effect, what's good for General Motors is bad for General Motors.

In effect, what's good for GM is bad for GM

If an allocation system ever becomes a reality, GM's allocation for highly essential natural gas would be computed on a base period. If GM were diligent during that period and saved energy, future allocations would be low.

The solution advocated by Estes and Tiberio: a national energy policy. "I would like to see more activity by the government," says Tiberio — a seemingly ironic statement from a man whose company has experienced tight governmental scrutiny in such areas as pollution control and safety standards.

"Safety can be a political thing," says Tiberio, "but energy cannot. Yet, we are no closer to a national energy policy."

TIBERIO CLAIMS that new home construction almost always assumes the use of natural gas; and, every new home with a gas tie-in deprives industry of the precious fuel.

But if natural gas is the most "natural" fuel for homeowners, then oil is "the easiest alternative" for industry, according to Tiberio. It's easier, and in many cases cheaper, for companies to burn oil rather than coal to fire boilers, for example, thus eliminating any incentive to save oil.

GM, on the other hand, fires 60 per cent of its boilers with coal to generate steam and, says Tiberio, "we are looking at all our boilers to phase out the use of oil."

"But why should we give up the use of oil if someone else goes ahead and burns it wastefully?"

GM and other large companies have been criticized because they pay less per unit for electricity than do residential users and Tiberio claims the criticism is not wholly justified.

"We save power companies millions of dollars by installing all the in-plant connections and even reading the meters. Economy of scale comes into play here. We save the utility companies money and we in turn receive savings in our bills."

GM CURRENTLY is in "phase II" of its energy conservation program. Phase I called for "the immediate elimination of any needless or wasteful use of energy."

Phase I entailed shutdown of equipment when not needed; improved maintenance and insulation, such as repairing compressed air and steam leaks; better scheduling; reduced lighting; ventilation and air temperature adjustments.

For example, Detroit Diesel Allison Division revised its office cleaning schedules to utilize more daylight hours. Savings: 3.5 billion Btu's a year.

Cadillac Motor Car Division reset paint bake and dry-off oven temperatures to a lower temperature, resulting in savings of almost 30 billion Btu's a year.

It achieved a 20 per cent reduction in the use of energy, the goal set by GM corporate leadership.

PHASE II, however, is what Neil DeKoker, an engineer in the Energy Management Section, calls the "nitty-gritty."

During this phase, the company plans changes in products, processes and controls, plus the use of new techniques—lasers, for example—in the machinery used to build cars.

Some of Phase II's accomplishments:

•Buick Motor Division provided a nitrogen atmosphere to cool furnaces, thereby allowing stock to remain in the furnace over the weekend. Savings: 7 billion Btu's a year.

•Guide Lamp Division took the hot exhaust from the sealed beam headlight manufacturing lines and combined it with the outside air for use as building heat during the winter months. Savings: 65.8 billion Btu's a year.

•Harrison Radiator Division designed and installed an air-to-water heat exchanger that takes hot exhaust from an oven and uses it to raise the temperature of the rinse water on a related process. Savings: 6 billion Btu's a year.

IN ADDITION to searching for ways of saving old forms of energy, GM is studying two other important new sources for its own supply.

The use of waste materials offers a viable alternative with some economic benefits as well. The Buick plant in Flint uses pulverized coal boilers to burn solid waste and waste oil sludge. A similar system is being installed in the GMC Truck and Coach plant in Pontiac.

The Fisher Body-Pontiac plant recently demonstrated how 10 per cent of its boiler coal-feed could be provided by burning of 100,000 scrap tires. Tires were shredded and bead wire removed with a magnet, to provide the 90-10 mixture of coal and rubber.

Not only can waste oil be re-refined, but it can also be burned as a fuel when it can no longer be recycled as a lubricant. Power plants could burn part of the waste oil with their normal oil as part of their boiler feed.

GABRIEL N. TIBERIO

GM even has gone so far as to purchase its own fuel sources. One of these is a natural gas field in Lordsburg, Ohio. GM will buy the field and share its output with the State of Ohio.

BY PRACTICING conservation GM hopes, says Tiberio, "to provide a back-up when energy curtailment comes."

It seems significant that Tiberio says "when" and not "if."

As DeKoker puts it: "I think it's apparent that we've left an age of abundance and are now in an age of scarcity."

If GM pursues its conservation program with continued vigor, a statement by a former GM executive who later became Secretary of Defense, Charles Wilson, may ring true: "What's good for General Motors is good for the country."

Theater guild begins search for permanent home

By SUE ROSIEK

WANTED: One building large enough to accommodate a stage area, costume and set storage and seating for 125 to 150 people, and still provide an intimate theater atmosphere. Please contact the Plymouth Theater Guild.

If the Plymouth group was going to place an advertisement that's how the message might read. The guild is presently working out of the Plymouth Central School on Main Street in Plymouth but feels it is about time it had a permanent home.

"We are revitalizing the theater guild," says Leonard Pavia, guild president and Plymouth resident. "We want to grow as a cultural concern in the Plymouth area and feel a new home is necessary."

THE BUILDING should be in the immediate Plymouth area (Plymouth and Canton townships included) and able to be remodeled to a theater's needs, says Pavia.

Ideally, the group wants a site to rent with an option to buy, he adds.

The theater guild presently has about 40 dues-paying members, and nearly 60 members that participate in plays in an acting or technical capacity.

"Another reason for finding a permanent site is that we would like to get more residents involved in community theater. In our last two productions we've tried very hard to give newcomers a chance to get on stage," says Pavia.

THE PLYMOUTH guild is currently in its 27th season. The group performed in the old P & A Theater, once located on Penniman Avenue across from the post office on Harvey Street. The building was destroyed by fire in the winter of 1967-68 and forced the guild to move back into the Central School Auditorium.

The Plymouth Theater Guild is under the auspices of the adult education program of the Plymouth Community School District and does not have to pay for use of the school facilities. It is, however, charged a maintenance fee of about $100 for its productions, says Mrs. Clemie Cyburt, guild vice president.

"The school has been marvelous," adds Mrs. Cyburt, "but scheduling has become increasingly difficult. Besides, the school facility is not ours."

Mrs. Cyburt says that before the P & A burned down the Plymouth guild and several other arts groups were considering converting the building into a arts center.

The theater group is back where it started in its search for a building.

PAVIA POINTED out that if the guild's expansion plans are going to go any further the group will definitely need permanent headquarters.

"We'd like to become even more involved in the community. We are thinking about staging a production in conjunction with the Plymouth Fall Festival, something we've never done before," says Pavia.

The guild produces three major shows each season plus a children's play. This year the children's program had to be scrapped because of a schedule conflict with the school's play.

Pavia says the guild hopes to find a new home within the next year, and could use all the help and suggestions from the community it can get.

PAVIA, who has been active in several other community theater groups feels that a permanent home is conducive to the growth of community theater.

The guild's recent productions included "All My Sons," a drama by Arthur Miller and "Unhealthy To Be Unpleasant."

MBT offers spring recital

The Michigan Ballet Theater (MBT), resident company of Farmington Hills will present a spring concert, Sunday, April 6 at 4 p.m. in North Farmington High School Auditorium.

A member of the Mid-States Regional Ballet Association, MBT has dancers from Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties.

The Harbinger Dance Company of Detroit will perform as guest artists.

Two new works will be presented by MBT: "Silhouettes," choreographed by Patrick Crommett and "Jaspierella" choreographed by Mary Okar. The Harbinger also will present a new work, "Ancient Mysteries" by Crommett.

Tickets may be obtained by calling the MBT, 31315 Thirteen Mile Road, Farmington, 48024. Prices are $2 for adults and $1 for students and senior citizens.

Livonia's first opera is lively, delightful

By PATRICIA BEACH SMITH

There are a few reasons why the first joint venture of the Michigan Opera Theater and the Oakway Symphony wasn't a total loss.

The two groups collaborated on a performance of Rossini's "Barber of Seville" Saturday in Churchill High School, Livonia.

First, the singers were well coached in their diction, and since the opera was sung in English nearly every word could be understood and laughed at.

Second, the staging by Christopher Alden was lively and not so far-fetched that it wasn't plausible. It was delightful and engaging.

Also a few of the voices were excellent. Rockwell Blake, for instance, has marvelous technique, and he gets a chance to show it off in the role of Count Almaviva.

Allan Glassman was creditable as the irrepressible Figaro, and Karen Ruczynski didn't get to sing enough for this reviewer's taste.

Nancy Fox Hoover was off in her singing. Her technique seemed weak and her voice unsupported. Even so, she performed charmingly the role of the coquettish Rosina. Her acting matched the enthusiasm of the rest of the cast which was on its toes throughout.

The same cannot be said for the Oakway Symphony, which was generally not aware of what was going on—that is, no two performers seem to be aware at the same time.

The score appears easy, but is deceptively difficult. Adding the vocal dimension to the conductor's and instrumentalists' task was too much. Mercifully, the opera includes much recitative, sung only with harpsichord accompaniment, so the orchestra did not continually have to carry what appeared to be an unbearable load.

ACT II'S SECOND scene was especially disheartening, when the intonation was bad on both the singers' and the orchestra's parts. Also the entrances throughout the opera were shoddy and unacceptable.

When Almaviva appeared in the second act in his drunk scene, he appeared to be merely uncomfortable in a pair of new shoes. But it didn't matter, the point was made.

Unfortunately for opera in general, this kind of performance is what the neophyte opera goer spends his money on because he or she isn't sure he'll like it.

The MOT's residency program is designed to bring affordable and creditable opera to areas which don't have such experiences at hand often. Opera would have been better served, one thinks, by a smaller and more proficient ensemble accompanying rather than the larger, more unwieldy ensemble which played Saturday.

Perhaps with more exposure to operatic literature and more practice in performing it, the Oakway will progress into an orchestra capable of playing such repertoire. At present it simply isn't up to it.

Another performance will be given April 26 at 8 p.m. in Plymouth-Salem High School Auditorium. This time, the Plymouth Symphony will accompany the MOT.

Students gain Interlochen awards

Julienne Milazzo and Kathy Everson, both students at Bentley High School in Livonia, have been awarded two-week scholarships to the Interlochen Music Camp by the Livonia Civic Chorus.

Miss Milazzo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Milazzo of 16118 Hampton in Livonia, won the vocal scholarship. She is a senior at Bentley and is a member of the concert choir and Tudor Singers. She has starred in the Theater Guild of Livonia-Redford's productions "Apple Tree," and "Two by Two." She plans to attend Northwestern University next fall.

Miss Everson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Everson, 14515 Loveland, Livonia, was awarded the instrumental scholarship.

Miss Everson, 17, is a senior and an accomplished cellist. She is currently studying with Prof. Oliver Edel at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor. She has played with the Livonia Youth Symphony and the World Youth Symphony Orchestra.

The Livonia Civic Chorus, presentors of the scholarships, is sponsored by the Livonia Department of Parks and Recreation.

The 60-member chorus has singers from Westland, Livonia, Plymouth, Southfield and Farmington Hills. The group sings at various church, community and civic functions during the year. Its next concert is May 2 in the Clarenceville High School Auditorium.

The group is celebrating its 10th anniversary. It awards one vocal and one instrumental scholarship each year to a student in the Livonia School District. The awards are offered in conjunction with the Interlochen All-State Convention and the University of Michigan.

Players offer 'Rumpelstiltskin'

The Greenfield Village Players revive their production of "Rumpelstiltskin" in the Henry Ford Museum Theater now through May 10. Originally presented in 1969, this adaptation of the ageless Grimm fairy tale was so successful, the Players decided to bring it back again this Easter season.

The well-known story remains intact—with a few intriguing embellishments. The miller's lovely daughter still must spin roomfuls of straw into gold for the greedy king. And the mysterious Rumpelstiltskin still offers to complete the task for her with just one catch—that she give him her first-born child. In the end, the miller's daughter foils his plan and the day is saved.

To the traditional plot, the Greenfield Village Players have added a few special touches. Rumpelstiltskin appears and disappears in flashes of fire and smoke. A mysterious chariot drawn by a brace of trained bats, a wicked witch and five horrible "Things"—all of whom live together in the enchanted "Witching Woods"—create an aura of excitement and suspense.

Interspersed with comedy and laced with nostalgia, "Rumpelstiltskin" will appeal to old and young alike. Children can meet the Village Players after each performance. Tickets are priced at $2.25 for adults and $1.25 for children 14 and under.

Matinee performances are scheduled for 2 p.m. March 29 and 31; April 1-5, 12, 19 and 26; and May 3 and 10.

For reservations contact the Travel and Convention Department, Greenfield Village, Dearborn, 48121.

Area students in UM-D concert

Two area students will be featured along with 21 other musicians in the Fair Lane Music Guild's fourth annual Young Artists' Concert, Sunday, March 30 at 8 p.m. in the Fair Lane Center, University of Michigan-Dearborn, 4901 Evergreen.

Clark Suttle, a graduate student from Livonia, will conduct a 17-person orchestra, assisted by concertmaster Robert Peterson of Dearborn. Assistant conductor of both the U-M Orchestra and Michigan Youth Symphony, Suttle has won several awards for his conducting in Michigan and at the International Competition in Switzerland.

University of Michigan student

Debra Fayroian, also of Livonia, will offer a solo performance of Haydn's "Cello Concerto in D major, Opus 101." She has appeared extensively in the Detroit area and is principal cellist with the Toledo Symphony.

Tickets, at $2 will be available at the door.

'Waltz of Toreadors' opens in Hilberry

Jean Anouilh's "The Waltz of the Toreadors" opens in the Hilberry Theater Wednesday, April 16, and plays again Thursday of the same week at 8:30 p.m. The production will continue in repertory until May 23. Previews are scheduled April 11-12 at 8:30 p.m.

Anouilh's play received the New York Critics' Circle award for best play by a foreign author. Translated by Lucienne Hill, "Waltz" is about a retired philandering general unable to leave his invalid wife. One moment he considers himself to be quite the toreador with the ladies, and a hollow failure the next. The sadness is purged by laughter, for the treatment is broadly comical and often farcical.

In the Hilberry production, General St. Pe is played by Al Hamacher and Mm. St. Pe is played by Kate Marshall. Both are in their second year with the Hilberry Company. Hamacher's previous roles include Lenny in "Of Mice and Men," Creon in "Medea," the gravedigger in "Hamlet," Orgon in "Tartuffe," and Mr. Paravicini in "The Mousetrap."

Miss Marshall has appeared as El-mire in "Tartuffe," Mollie in "The Mousetrap," and Elizabeth Proctor in "The Crucible."

The "Waltz" cast also features James Kisicki as Dr. Bonfant; Harper Jane McAdoo as Mlle. De Ste-Eu-verte; Ellen Tobie and Colby Schneider as the daughters, Sidonia and Estelle; Jan Lewis as Mme. Dupont-Fedaine; Michael A. Pardy as Gaston; Jeff Boudov as Father Ambrose; and Deborah Stern as the Maid.

Complete repertory schedule and ticket information may be obtained from the Wayne State University Theater box office in the Hilberry lobby, Cass and Hancock.

Symphony plans dinner dance

The Redford Civic Symphony will hold its annual spring dinner dance on Saturday, April 12, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Bonnie Brook Country Club, Telegraph Road north of Seven Mile.

Tickets are $10 per person and may be purchased from members of the orchestra or music society. Price includes dinner and dancing. A cash bar will be available.

Music will be provided by Benny Moon and his band.

This year's event is being sponsored in conjunction with the Redford Township Music Society.

'Personals' revised

A revised schedule is planned by the Dinner Theater of Detroit for Easter weekend.

The theater will be dark Holy Thursday and Good Friday and will be open for dinner and show Saturday. There will be a show at 8 p.m. and no dinner on Easter Sunday, announced John Schmittroth, producer.

The Dinner Theater current offering, "Personals," is presented by Mercy College Thursday through Sunday. Dinner is at 7 p.m. and showtime is 8:30 p.m. For reservations call the college, 8200 W. Outer Drive, Detroit, 48219.

How some experts view the drug scene

By MARGARET MILLER

Young people may turn to drugs and alcohol "because we've taught them to expect instant solutions to problems," believes psychiatric social worker Bobbi Toll.

Not as many take that course as some people think, says Dr. Ralph D. Rabinovitch, director of clinical research at Hawthorn Center. Maybe five to seven per cent of youth population, but that's plenty to mean tragedy for parents and society.

For those who do, an "equal treatment," no-coddling approach to rehabilitation is what's recommended by Barbara Reid, who runs a therapeutic day care center.

Parents worrying about their kids should watch their own actions, says Phyllis Tuttle, who coordinates an industrial drug and alcohol abuse program. How they drink and how they take prescription drugs is what she's talking about.

They also should remember, adds Dr. Edward Leibson, currently with the Wayne County department of substance abuse services, that "behavior patterns of those who take drugs are more important than the drugs themselves."

And all concerned should keep in mind that many agencies stand ready to help when substance abuse problems arise—that from Dr. J. Irwin Nichol, Dr. Leibson's counterpart on the state level.

ALL THE SPEAKERS participated in a panel discussion of "Is Your Child Next?" in alcohol and drug abuse, put on at Madonna College Monday night by the Michigan State Bar Association and the Lawyers' Wives of Michigan. Wayne County Probate Judge Ira G. Kaufman moderated and his wife, Lillian, was in charge of the event.

For a couple of hundred parents, teachers, students, counselors and clergymen, the panel approached the substance abuse problem from many angles, going into both prevention and treatment.

Joining them in the presentation were Willie McKeever, an artist who has come through Ms. Reid's center, and a speaker who identified himself with the words "My name is Arnie, and I'm an alcoholic."

'Kids haven't learned to cope -- we've taught them to expect instant solutions to problems.'

Both talked of the need for desire on the part of the user to end addiction.

THE IDEA THAT SEEDS of substance abuse begin at home was pushed by both Ms. Toll, a Farmington Hills resident who works with young addicts, and Mrs. Tuttle, whose program is with Ford Motor Co. employees.

"We live in a society," Ms. Toll said, "that is addictive because it puts so much stress on instant solutions. Parents seem to tell their children, 'You have a problem? Take an aspirin, try a tranquilizer, go buy something.'"

"Young people are so used to getting things so quickly that they have not learned to cope."

"If you want to cope without working at it, taking a drug gives you a quick solution, and group identity and a full-time occupation too."

Ms. Toll said parents should "look for more lasting solutions, and teach them to our children and ourselves."

MS. TUTTLE SAID her work is concerned mainly with alcohol misuse, because "it's the drug of greatest use in the work place," and added that so far she has been dealing mainly with professionals and supervisors so that employees seeking help can find sympathetic viewing of their problems.

"I think the most effective educational device we have is our own actions," she stated. "I mean drinking in moderation if we choose to drink and trying to find more non-chemical approaches to problems rather than going so fast to prescription drugs."

Dr. Rabinovitch put his stamp of approval on the rehabilitation program described by Ms. Reid.

She pointed out that there are many kinds of addiction, and her counseling also involved those whose problem is obesity. Then she added:

"It's important to say that addicts are like other people—they, too, bleed when cut."

"So I try to treat them equally—I'm starting to demand of them what I would demand of myself. If my client is to be able to go on to a job, I must do this."

THIS APPROACH Dr. Rabinovitch stated, seems to be a more popular one these days in dealing with problem drug users, "and I think it's all to the good."

"You must have concern for the person you are dealing with," he said, "and you need acceptance. But counseling used to end there in endless rapping. The next step should be a practical plan, one that does not over-demand but does not demean either."

The Hawthorn Center leader described six general categories of young people who turn to drugs and heavy use of alcohol.

These he listed as the kid who feels alienated and turns to drugs for peer acceptance, the kid who is depressed, maybe over a difficult family situation, the neglected kid, the over-indulged kid, the younger one used as a "plaything" by older brothers, and the "generally delinquent, highly-corrupted" kid.

HE ALSO pointed out that statistics may be deceiving when it comes to a true picture of drug and alcohol abuse.

"The indications are that 82 per cent of today's young people have tried these things by the time they finish high school," he said.

"But the kid who has a couple of beers a month or tries an occasional joint of marijuana hardly belongs in these statistics."

"It's a group of five to seven per cent we are talking about. And while this means tragedy for many parents, let's think too about the 95 per cent who do not abuse drugs or alcohol."

'Dollieisms' fine fare in Livonia town hall season finale

By SHERRY KAHAN

The outspoken Dolle Cole lived up to her reputation for plain speaking at a Livonia Town Hall lecture last week.

Referring to the fact that she was filling in for ailing James Beard, the food authority who had been scheduled to speak, Mrs. Cole joshed her audience about the reason for selecting her.

"Martha Mitchell wouldn't leave her telephone. Ralph Nader was too expensive, and Christina Ford was busy studying modeling," she explained.

Other Dollieisms from the wife of Edward Cole, retired president of General Motors were:

- "Being rich is not that important, but it keeps you from being nervous."
- "I think my husband's secretary could have run General Motors. But if you tell him I said so, I'll tell him you're lying."
- "Go buy yourself a full length mirror. If your backside looks like two cats fighting in a sack, it is time to shape up."
- "If my mouth were shut, Edward would think he had died and gone to heaven."
- "I'm a suicide blonde — dyed by my own hand."
- "They say the one-wife-at-a-time marriage is on the way out. I might allow an extra woman in the house if she could iron."
- "I wear a bra. Why should I defy the laws of fashion just to prove that the law of gravity really works."

MRS. COLE TALKED in the morning in the Mai Kai theater in Livonia. She stressed that women ought to shape up physically as well as find their own identities.

"Sometime I fear that my tombstone will read, 'Here lies Dolle Cole, the wife of the retired president of General Motors.'"

Later she was the focal point of a lively question and answer session at a luncheon in the Mayflower Meeting House in Plymouth.

Members of her audience expressed interest in two of her recent trips, one to Saudi Arabia and one to Paducah, Ky.

"All women have an identity problem in Saudi Arabia," said Mrs. Cole. "They all wore black and were heavily veiled."

She seemed to express a grudging admiration for the Saudi Arabian system of justice.

"There have been no robberies there since 1952," she said. "Anyone who is caught is taken to the hospital and has his hand cut off."

"An adulteress, if discovered, is stoned to death in the city square. The man is put to death. I didn't want to ask how."

Mrs. Cole said the Saudi Arabians believe in instant justice and there are no prisons.

SHE TOLD HER STORY about "the great Paducah taxi rip-off" with great relish.

The Coles and their friends, she related, had been informed by the cab driver that he was charging $75 to take them from the airport to the city, so they told him to let them off near a service station.

"He charged us $25 just to open the trunk so we could get our luggage," she added indignantly.

Then she described her chic attire for the occasion.

"I was wearing a grey pantsuit," she said, "and I had been sitting so long the knee bulges stayed when I stood up. Then, it was cold, so I put on my golf socks. So there I was, with those little white balls hanging out of my high-heeled shoes."

AMONG THE QUESTIONS from the audience was one asking if Mrs. Cole and Christina Ford are friends.

"Christina and I are very good friends," answered Mrs. Cole. "We have a different life style. She has 27 servants. She has a lust for life and a good sense of humor. She's a nice gal, and so good-looking."

Asked about Mrs. Ford's reaction to current publicity about the arrest of her husband, she said:

"Christina was away watching a king being crowned. I don't know if Henry was next."

"Henry is a very gutsy guy—very straight forward," she added.

Her own husband she described as "the most brilliant man I know, and not just about cars."

WHILE MRS. COLE often mingles with the high and the mighty, she also spends time with the disadvantaged and the handicapped.

With a PhD in speech therapy, she worked in the past as a teacher to the mentally retarded, and continues to aid organizations involved with the handicapped. Last weekend she participated in an Easter Seal telethon.

"All my life I have been connected with the handicapped for some strange reason," she said. "I think it is because I feel so lucky to have four children who are mentally and physically fit."

"If you are lucky you have to do something to say thank you."

"When I was growing up," she concluded, "teaching speech therapy was my lifelong ambition. But the accomplishments for these handicapped children came so slowly. It made me want to push them hard, because I so much wanted them to improve."

Dad teaches family, classes

He's up on Ukrainian egg art

By SUE ROSIEK

"This is one of the most relaxing things I do," smiles Eugene Stadnik, as his fingers guide a wax-filled stylus across a smooth, white egg, creating an intricate and symbolic design.

Stadnik is practicing the ancient folk art of Ukrainian egg decorating, traditionally called "Pysanky."

After dipping the egg in four different colors of dye, Stadnik removes the beeswax and the egg is varnished, illuminating the brilliant colors and complex pattern.

"I've been doing this all my life, but didn't really start studying the art until about five years ago," says Stadnik. "I began by copying designs then gradually developed my own."

Stadnik's mother taught him the art and now he is passing it along to his sons, Micah, 9, and John Clifton, 13. His wife, Nina, also decorates but adds "my husband is the expert of the house."

BESIDES TEACHING his family, this Livonia businessman conducts a decorating class in Mt. Hope Congregational Church on Schoolcraft in Livonia. He presently has about 30 students, a mixture of adults and junior high school students. He also is co-master of Livonia Pack 900 in the Sunset District, and has offered his class to the scouts.

STADNIK KEEPS a few reference books available to help introduce his family and classes to the various symbols, but adds that most people pick them up by just watching.

"Because the eggs are so symbolic they make great gifts," says Stadnik. "Ukrainian egg decorating is really suitable for all seasons," he adds while displaying a Christmas egg.

Stadnik has kept his sons' first attempts at egg designing and compares them with their most recent creations. He's obviously very proud of their progress.

Most of Stadnik's eggs will be given away as friendship gifts but a few "special" eggs will remain in the family's collection. The Stadnik's oldest egg belongs to Mrs. Stadnik. It was an engagement present from her husband 18 years ago.

"It's an old Ukrainian custom to give your best egg as a love gift," explains Stadnik. "When a girl likes a boy she gives him her finest egg. It's folklore that the girl who draws the straightest lines will make the best wife."

In the Stadnik's case the tradition was turned around some and Mrs. Stadnik says it was probably for the best. "My lines are not very straight," she laughs.

EGG DECORATING is generally a family affair in the Stadnik household. The family gathers around the kitchen table. "I enjoy watching the children work and I like to supervise them since the process involves a lighted candle," says Stadnik. "I like to do this because it's fun," adds his son, Micah.

Stadnik says whether the boys continue the art is up to them. "Like all other youngsters they have other interests—Micah loves animals and John Clifton has a passion for cars."

As for Stadnik, his egg designs get more imaginative every year.

NOW asks new hiring

A recommendation that an additional person be hired to direct women's programs at Schoolcraft College has been placed before the SC board of trustees by Sylvia Vukmirovich, chairperson for the National Organization for Women educational task force.

Mrs. Vukmirovich, in a written statement presented to the board members at a recent meeting, said such a staff member is needed to furnish expertise in "such areas as health practices, welfare rights, legal rights and mid-life career alternatives."

Mrs. Jean Christensen of Livonia was named by the board to head women's programs late in 1974, and Mrs. Vukmirovich protested at two earlier board meetings that she was not the candidate most qualified for the position.

At its most recent session, as on earlier occasions, the board thanked Mrs. Vukmirovich for her interest and made no further response.

Passover begins

JULIE BREUER of Livonia marked the beginning of Passover by eating matzoh, one of the traditional foods of this Jewish holiday, which celebrates the escape of the Jews from bondage in Egypt. Her mother, Mrs. Naomi

Breuer, drinks wine, which like the hard boiled egg; herbs, bone and celery on the table, has a symbolic role to play in the seder meal. (Staff photo by Mitchell Booth)

To meet the increased requests for help from families in the tri-county area, the Salvation Army is making an emergency appeal for contributions of canned food.

The Army is working now to meet the needs of a new group of people, those who are unemployed for the first time. Help is immediate and is done with the minimum of red tape.

"Most often this is a family who never had to ask for anything before," said Col. S.W. Franzen, Salvation Army divisional commander.

"Often this family will be reluctant to seek help which they associate with the humiliation of standing in long lines and filling out pages of forms asking countless personal questions." He explained that the only records kept are the person's name, address, Social Security number, number of children and whether or not he is working.

Food boxes given out will usually provide enough food to feed a family for a week. Often a supplementary food check is given for the purchase of perishable items such as milk and bread.

For years the Easter Bunny has come to our house hippity-hopping through a maze of treasure hunt clues.
 Now his disguise and gait seem to have changed a bit, but he's still up to his old tricks.
 The treasure hunt at Easter came, I guess, from my own childhood, when a couple of maiden aunts made it a practice to set up a series of clues before the kids in our family could find their Easter baskets.

(note by the tennis rackets); "White coral bells, upon a slender stalk" (note under a rock in the part of the garden where the lilies of the valley grow) and "Worthy is the lamb" (note in the freezer.)

A FEW YEARS AGO I suggested that the older girls might like to do Easter Bunny honors and compose the notes. When first broached, they turned me down and said they still wanted to be in on the hunt. (More headaches for E.B.—it wasn't all that easy to come up with something they wouldn't figure out immediately.)

But last year, with one of our college students not coming home for Easter, the other one said yes, she'd be glad to take over the notes.

I was delighted to limit my part in the Easter pageant to supplying contents for the baskets. But in having her take over, I forgot she'd be out at a late party and was planning to get up for a sunrise breakfast.

WHAT HAPPENED was that she decided to be Easter Bunny between these two events instead of going to bed, and a noisier rabbit never has invaded our house.

I wound up keeping track of every clue, footstep by footstep.

This year she's again planning the hunt. She's been practicing by working on a road rally her school is sponsoring. And she's even promised to work at more reasonable hours—or tiptoe.

Maybe this is the Easter when the retired bunnies will really get some sleep.

WE STARTED IT in our home when the girls were little, making sure that properly-placed clues kept them tearing from attic to basement and back again as well as traipsing to the back yard a few times before they had possession of chocolate bunnies and eggs in baskets saved from year to year.

As Easter weekend activities increased, the Easter Bunny often found himself composing clues in the late hours of Saturday night.

The project became more complicated, too, because the E. B. had to remember to avoid places that might be frequented by Easter-breakfast-bound young ladies. (He almost goofed mightily one year when he thought the stall shower would be a good place to hide four baskets.)

IN RECENT YEARS, as the girls advanced in deciphering ability, his efforts became more enigmatic.

One batch of old clues I came upon recently included "Down in the valley, in the valley so low," (next note at the bottom of the hill that slopes down from our house); "Any two for elevenis?,"

Training available for foster parents

To train persons interested in becoming foster parents to retarded children, the Center for Community Living for Retarded Citizens of Wayne County is holding training sessions in its center at 400 Kales building, Park and Adams, Detroit.

Presently there are 39 foster homes serving 83 children within Wayne County. But there is a need for many more. Nearly 175 children are eligible for placement in the community and there are more to be referred.

These children come from Plymouth Center for Human Development, Northville Residential Training Center, Oakdale Center, Michigan Department of Social Services, Lutheran Social Services and the Michigan Department of Health.

Some of the children are referred by their parents who, for personal reasons, can no longer care for the child in their home.

The Center for Community Living works closely with the foster parents.

Foster parents are paid for basic care of the foster child and in addition to this, program monies are paid for extra work in the home. Clothing and medical needs will be provided by the agency.

Those interested in becoming foster parents may contact Lucille Robinson, foster care supervisor, at the center.

Handicapped club wants members

The National Association of the Physically Handicapped is interested in reaching out to handicapped persons in this area to inform them of the work of the organization.

"The scope of the organization is to do all things necessary and within our abilities to improve the social, economic and physical welfare of all the physically handicapped," said Lee Parker, fourth vice president of the organization, whose duties are concerned with membership and organization.

"Through our newsletter we keep physically handicapped people from many parts of the country in touch with each other," said a pamphlet recently published by the NAPH. "We provide a united front for the advancement of the programs which the physically handicapped themselves formulate."

"Your membership in NAPH is a prerequisite for obtaining membership in the NAPH Farm-Home, Inc., an organization dedicated to the building of housing and related facilities for the physically-handicapped. A pilot project is now being developed."

Those interested in more information about NAPH may contact Miss Parker at the Michigan area NAPH, 4002 W. Jefferson, Ecorse.

Plymouth scouts learn about helping

Plymouth Girl Scouts did their best to carry out the "Let Us Help" theme chosen by the Huron Valley Girl Scout Council to highlight Girl Scout week.

Scouts from the Miller, Isbister, Allen and Bird school clusters gave help to needy people, carried out service projects for schools and ecology projects for the community.

Twenty-four girls from Brownie Troop 517 of Miller cluster learned the importance of good care for library books when they worked in the Miller school library. Under the leadership of Mrs. Susan Vogel, they straightened and dusted books.

Scouts from the Isbister cluster held a banquet in Pioneer Middle school to honor troop committee mothers who have helped the troops throughout the year.

The events were planned by girls from Brownie troops 645, 534 and 524; junior troops 637 and 303 and Cadette troop 363.

Leaders of the troops are Barbara Sampson, Pam Van Heyningen, Ann La Fevre, Sue Beale, Sara Martinez and Linda Lewis.

Cadette troop 307 from Allen School cluster has been carrying out the "Let Us Help" theme since last fall.

Members have been visiting Our Lady of Providence school for girls in Northville on a regular basis. Troop members conducted a regular troop meeting with the girls there. Included was a flag ceremony, songs and games.

The scouts have also participated in a winter outing with the younger girls of the school and will help to plant seeds in the school courtyard later this spring.

Mrs. Joan Fee is the leader. Girl representatives from each of the nine troops in the Bird School cluster held a celebration in honor of the 63rd birthday of Girl Scouting.

The girls' parents were invited to a program which included a flag ceremony, dancing, history of girl scouting, singing by the Brownies, a fashion show, group singing, two plays and a Scouts Own.

Troops involved are Brownie troops 520, 298 and 525; Junior troops 210, 230 and 528, and Cadette troops 411 and 626 and Senior troop 501.

Drive to raise diabetes funds is scheduled

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP— Members of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation will ask residents to contribute funds for research on May 9, as volunteers conduct a "Dollars for Diabetes" march.

The Plymouth Township Board of Trustees has granted permission for the drive.

Goal of the Juvenile Diabetes Foundation, a Michigan non-profit corporation granted public charity status by the Internal Revenue Service, is to further knowledge of juvenile diabetic diseases. This, through research, publication and teaching, applies such knowledge to the prevention and treatment of the disease.

Mr. and Mrs. James Eldridge of Anita Avenue, Westland, announce the birth of a son, James Michael, on Feb. 23. The grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Buell Eldridge of Utica and Mr. and Mrs. W.E. Sweet of Livonia.

CECILIA WRIGHT holds the Good Citizenship pin presented to her by Mrs. James Rogers (standing), chairman of John Sackett DAR chapter. With Cecilia is her mother, Mrs. Patrick Wright.

Cecilia Wright is DAR state finalist

Cecilia Wright, Bishop Borgess High School senior, is one of the 12 state finalists in the Daughters of the American Revolution Good Citizen competition.

She and her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Patricia Wright of Detroit, will be guests at a DAR luncheon in Grand Rapids April 2.

Miss Wright recently was honored by the John Sackett chapter of the DAR as a winner of the Bishop Borgess Good Citizenship award. The awards are based on dependability, leadership, service and patriotism.

Editor of the Bishop Borgess yearbook, Miss Wright is also active in student government. She recently won a scholarship to Eastern Michigan University.

Representing the John Sackett chapter at the April meeting of the state DAR in Grand Rapids will be Dr. Helen Ditzhazy, chapter regent, Mrs. Walter Fysh of Southfield, Mrs. Jonah Hale, Dearborn Heights, and Mrs. Harry Psulger of Detroit.

Abbott-Rutkey

Mr. and Mrs. William Abbott of Rush Street, Garden City, announce the engagement of their daughter, Deborah Janice, to David John Rutkey, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Rutkey of Allen Park. The bride-elect is a graduate of Garden City East High School and employed by K-mart in Garden City as a cashier. Her fiancé attended Henry Ford College and is a draftsman with Survey Engineering Corp. No wedding date has been set.

Canton youth captures title

By RICHARD GOLD

CANTON—Champions are becoming more and more commonplace in the Plymouth-Canton area, be they conference, regional or statewide.

In addition to the basketball effort by Plymouth-Salem, there is another honor for a Canton resident who is 11-years-old and has taken an international award.

THE CHAMPION is Kevin Santilli, a slight fellow, weighing in at no more than 80 or 90 pounds.

But don't let that fool you, he is currently the holder of the 1975 Ontario Tae Kwon Do championship for the pee wee division and he has a brown belt to boot.

Kevin is a student of Isshinryu, an Okinawan form of Karate. His father, Sam, holds a first degree black belt in the martial art and instructs his sons Kevin, and Greg, 14 along with others at his own classroom on 1160 West Ann Arbor Road.

Comments the older Santilli, a construction worker: "My wife was complaining I wasn't spending enough time with the boys. I asked them what they wanted to do and they said Karate."

"So we went to a class and I was really surprised. There were 15 and 16-year-old kids and they kicked me at will. I was out of shape, and it really deflated my ego. These young kids, were able to kick me in the ribs as long as they wanted."

That was six and a half years ago. Since then Santilli has earned his black belt and become an instructor.

Kevin recently earned his brown belt and his room is filled with more than 25 assorted trophies.

Says his proud father: "He practices all the time, it's really disciplined him. Before he started Isshinryu he had a violent temper and he was a C student. Since he began he has learned to control his temper and he's bringing home As and Bs."

WHILE SOME forms of Karate stress eastern mysticism and Zen religion, Santilli, and his chief instructor, Bob White, a second degree black belt, stress the physical aspects of Isshinryu.

"We teach our students manners, but that is about the extent of it," comments Santilli. "We don't teach them religion."

According to Santilli, there are 18 levels of expertise in Isshinryu. Students begin at a white belt, and progress through, gold, orange, green, purple, three degrees of brown and 10 degrees of black belts.

Santilli explains anyone who has earned his green belt is capable of handling himself "on the streets." "My first instructor was an expert in street fighting techniques, and I followed in his footsteps. That's what I teach primarily."

According to Santilli, there are numerous styles of Karate, but Isshinryu is considered by many to be the most dangerous. "It's more than a sport like Judo, it is a real self defense."

"Our style consists of 40 per cent hands and 60 per cent feet or vice versa depending on your build. If you are tall you would use your feet more, while if you were short like me you would be more apt to use your hands."

Santilli deflates many of the myths that come with a black belt. "That stuff about breaking boards and blocks is for show and while we could teach that here we don't really bother. As for registering your hands once you get a black belt that is also a myth. But if you are involved in a fight, and you do have a black belt, you are more likely to be sued. That's why we don't give out black belts to students here who don't have the mental equipment to go with it. Discipline is part of the whole thing."

"Aside from the defense ability Isshinryu gives you, it will not only tone your body, but develop it, like dynamic tension."

MSU professor talks at Canton chamber dinner

CANTON—"Canton Township, the most rapidly growing Township in Michigan will continue to grow because it has been planned for good living," said Robert Hotaling, professor of urban planning from Michigan State University in an address to the Canton Chamber of Commerce.

Speaking at the third annual dinner meeting, Hotaling emphasized the township board, planners and business heads must work together and must get the feeling of the community in making land use plans.

"These plans should start at a level such as the Chamber of Commerce," he stressed, "Local planning must have the support of all groups. They should aim to get the job done first and then go to the state and federal governments for funding and additional planning."

"Planning must be done at a local level and have the full commitment of all. Many communities have had big troubles in the past because all didn't support the plans."

"THE GROWTH of communities such as this one is based on placing newly formed families in suburban areas and then making the newcomers happy with the surroundings."

"In our study for a proper site for the Meijer's center we considered the outward migration—families moving from a heavily populated area with a high density, to a suburban section."

"We discovered it along the Ford Road corridor and finally settled on the site at the intersection of Ford and Canton Center Roads. We thought it was the most logical place for a center of the type of Meijer's and believe the future will prove our selection."

HOTALING told the group the best residential area is not around the intersections of the major highways. He indicated there should be business, apartments and then dwellings in places where the families would have space for good living and room for growth.

He said every growing community, such as Canton Township, should have a proper relationship of industry, business and residential.

"In many instances there has been a mistaken idea of lower taxes in the new suburban areas," he stated.

"Residents fight industry and business growth and then suddenly they run into special assessments and other issues, much to their sorrow."

"When an area goes from septic tanks, pumps and gravel roads to blacktop and paved streets, sewers and water, the costs must be borne by the taxpayers."

"Canton Township has been fortunate that the governmental officials had some visions of the future and had sewer, water, roads and schools provided. Of course it is reflected in the cost of the home but it is there now."

"Those planners were thinking of the future and some of their plans were developed only four years ago. Residents here have good educational facilities, as good as any in the state due to the superb efforts of the Plymouth school system."

Hotaling was introduced by William Hildreth, manager of Meijer's Thrifty Acres, who told of the operation of the center and how every effort is made to make it the most complete shopping center of its kind in this section of the state.

Hildreth mentioned the many things Meijer's does for the convenience of its patrons, especially the handicapped, where it has electric carts, all shopping on one level, phones, snack bar and toilet facilities on that same level.

Planner urges loop OK

PLYMOUTH—"This community should make a commitment once and for all to a bold and dramatic effort to create a downtown that will endure as a proud focal point, a point of community identity and a base for maintaining the physical, social, and most important, economic vitality of this city," commented planner Jay Eldridge to members of the Chamber of Commerce.

Eldridge, a corporate vice-president of Vilcan-Leman and Associates, told chamber members at a luncheon Wednesday that the city is "further from being committed to a program for development of the central business district than it was two years ago."

He attributed the decreased probability of a rejuvenated downtown to outside economic problems, but added "the most depressing effect on all efforts to move downtown forward come from within."

Vilcan-Leman is the consulting firm that studied the loop road proposal, and Eldridge commented, "The center of a new and rejuvenated downtown revolves around the implementation of the loop road."

He added, "This cannot be done in a piecemeal manner if you want to be dramatic enough to attract attention and compete with other communities for developers and retailers. If you implement the loop road on a trial basis with use of road signs you invite failure."

Eldridge told those present to "package a program" and sell the city to potential investors who will build in the central business district. He said, "Without a firm commitment, you will not be able to lure developers and retailers here."

THE PLANNER also said, "there will be controversy, but you cannot avoid it if you strive for an objective. Those that say it can't be done, or shouldn't, are often the ones afterward who ask why didn't you when it is too late."

Quoting from Will Rogers he concluded his speech saying, "If you would avoid controversy, say nothing, do nothing, be nothing."

MAYOR BEVERLY McANINCH was present and commented, "The cost of the loop road is $350,000 at rock bottom. People just assume we have that money sitting around. You are asking us to subsidize the downtown program, and maybe the rest of the community does not see it that way."

Chamber President and former mayor Jim McKeon replied, "the resale value of residential property is dependent on the economic health of the downtown."

Former chairman of the Plymouth

Canton Development Commission, Jim Houk added, "This wishywashiness has been going on too long, almost 20 years. The time for action is now."

Striking a more conciliatory pose, Eldridge explained, "We must realize that some people, for some reason don't want a vital thriving downtown. Why, I don't know—but we must respect that concern."

Let's get away from ill feeling and false concerns. Let's move forward and avoid past problems."

Added McKeon, "Maybe it is the role of this chamber to pull the property owners together and convince them."

Students tapped for honor society

PLYMOUTH—A total of 71 students at Plymouth Centennial Educational Park were inducted into the Plymouth Chapter of the National Honor Society.

Guest speaker was Canton Township Trustee E. Brian Schwall, who is also an English teacher at Canton High School.

Entertainment was provided by the Centennial Park string quartet.

Newly inducted members include: Lori Bistersky, Cathy Callahan, Vicki Chase, William Christie, Robin Cox, Janice Czupski, Kathleen Delaney, Valerie Dennison, Eileen Dickson, and Janet Dobry.

Kara Egan, Karen Faber, Donald Fulkerson, Sandra Green, Cindy Gortney, Patrick Harrington, Suzanne Hartnett, Sharon Hayes, Clark Heath, and Julie Hedrick.

John Herron, Diane Hissom, John Horton, Mary Hull, Carrie La Mirand, Carol Lanphear, Mike Ley, Chuck Lowe, Dynese McClumpha, and Gerald McKenny.

Mike McHarris, Rick Mastellar, Rene Merritt, Mary Mullen, William Murphy, Laurel Nicholas, Matthew Norris, Kurt Olson, John Overhiser, and Mary Pasek.

Board approves township budgets

PLYMOUTH TOWNSHIP—The board of trustees took about five minutes Tuesday to unanimously approve the township's 1975-76 general operating, and water and sewer department budgets.

Residents at Tuesday's meeting offered no comments on the budgets before they were approved.

The 1975-76 operating budget, pegged at $989,653, marks a seven per cent increase in revenues and expenditures for the fiscal year beginning April 1. Last year's operating budget was set at $923,830, a three per cent increase over the 1973-74 figures.

An additional $54,000 in federal Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) funds mark the biggest increase in the upcoming budget. The remainder of the $65,823 increase is expected from slight increases in the property tax collections.

About $42,500, earmarked for the public improvement budget, will mark the largest increase in expenditures, according to Clerk Helen Richardson. The bulk of those funds will make payments on the township-owned Hilltop Golf Course.

A three per cent pay hike for non-union employees takes up the other major increase expenditures.

The 1975-76 water and sewer department budget, on the other hand, marks an approximate 5½ per cent decrease in 1974-75 revenue and expenditure figures.

This year's budget, pegged at $729,900, is lower than last year's $783,520 figure because of reduced profits from water bills, according to Mrs. Richardson.

Although the water and sewer department will not cut personnel to reduce expenditures, Mrs. Richardson said the department's building fund reserve, supplies and frequency of cleaning water mains will be cut.

The department's budget does not account for water rate increase proposed by the Detroit Water Board.

THREE OF THE DISCIPLES were late for rehearsal as the men of St. Timothy Presbyterian Church of Livonia practiced for their Maundy Thursday tableau, but those on hand still formed a recognizable reenactment of Leonardo da Vinci's famed painting, "The Last Supper." Bob Seller (left) is Judas, and Arnold Car-ison, sitting in the center, is Jesus. The tableau, directed by Faye Craigie, will be presented in costume with accompanying narration at the church's 7:30 p.m. communion service Thursday, March 27. (Photo by Mitchell Booth)

Area churches greet Resurrection

With sunrise services, Easter breakfasts and a variety of special worship programs, churches in this area will commemorate the Resurrection on Easter Sunday, March 30.

Many worshippers will rise early for dawn services, and many others will go to church for breakfast before or after services.

Several special concerts and programs also are planned.

CALVARY BAPTIST CHURCH, 43065 Joy, Plymouth, will present a 50-voice choir accompanied by brass instruments in a performance of the John W. Peterson cantata, "Easter Song," at 7 p.m. Easter evening. Tom Hovermale, minister of music, will be the director.

In Clarenceville United Methodist Church, 20300 Middle Belt, Livonia, the Gospel Troubadours of Lansing, a group of six young people, will be on hand for a 7:30 p.m. Easter Sunday concert.

The troubadours offer standard and contemporary gospel music with instrumentation on piano, harp, cordovox, flugelhorn, bass guitar and tambourine.

A film, "Journey to the Sky," will be shown at 7 p.m. in Ward United Presbyterian Church, 17000 Farmington Road, Livonia.

The 45-minute Ken Anderson color film portrays the true story of an Indian Christian who entered Tibet with gospel preaching.

Another movie, "Israel Today," in color, will be shown at 6 p.m. in Redford Baptist Church, Grand River and Seven Mile in Redford Township.

Other Easter worship will include a prayer vigil from 6 p.m. Saturday until 6 a.m. Sunday in Nativity United Church of Christ, 9435 Henry Ruff, Livonia, and an in-gathering of a "30 Pieces of Silver" offering in Good Shepherd Reformed Church in Westland. That money will be presented to the church's former minister, the Rev. Wayne Joosse, for his house ministry.

EASTER SUNRISE services, combined with breakfasts, are planned by a number of churches, including Good Hope Lutheran of Garden City, Peace Evangelical Lutheran of Livonia, Hosanna-Tabor Lutheran of Redford Township, St. Paul Presbyterian of Livonia, Good Shepherd of Westland and Mt. Hope Congregational of Livonia.

There will be sunrise services in St. Matthew Lutheran of Westland, Nativity of Livonia, Lola Valley United Methodist of Redford Township, First United Methodist of Plymouth and First United Methodist of Garden City.

Breakfasts will be served in Newburgh United Methodist of Livonia, from 7 to 9 a.m., Rosedale Gardens United Presbyterian of Livonia, from 7:30 to 8:30 a.m. Sword of the Spirit Lutheran of Livonia, following the 10 a.m. festival service and in Grand River Baptist of Livonia, at 8 a.m.

The youth group of Faith Baptist Church of Livonia will serve a sunrise breakfast at 8 a.m., and 8 a.m. also will be the hour for Easter breakfast in St. John Lutheran of Redford Township.

Concerts set

The Chicago Children's Choir, composed of 43 voices under the direction of the Rev. Christopher Moore, will sing two concerts in the metropolitan area during the Easter weekend.

The choir's program of classical music, folk songs and spirituals will be presented in Birmingham Unitarian Church, Lone Pine at Woodward, at 8 p.m. Saturday, March 29, and in the First Unitarian-Universalist Church, 4605 Cass, at 10:30 a.m. Easter Sunday.

LOSE WEIGHT OR MONEY BACK

New clinical tests completed at a major university hospital prove that the ODRINEX Plan will help you lose excess weight quickly.

ODRINEX contains an amazing hunger tamer that suppresses the appetite. Enjoy three good meals a day as the tiny ODRINEX tablet automatically helps you eat less without being hungry. With fewer calories, your weight goes down. Safe taken as directed - will not make you nervous. Look better, feel better as you start slimming down today with ODRINEX. Satisfaction guaranteed or money back.

Five ecumenical services for Good Friday are planned March 28 through cooperative efforts of churches in this area. Two other combined services will involve more than one church of the same denomination.

All will be held during the three hours from 12 noon to 3 p.m., the time set aside in Holy Week to mark the time Jesus was on the cross.

In addition, special Good Friday programs will be offered by a number of area churches, and many others will be the setting for worship for all who care to come. Most invite worshippers to come and leave as their times permit.

ST. MATTHEW UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 30600 W. Six Mile, Livonia, from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

Five churches will participate in this service, which will have as its theme "The Words from the Cross." The churches, besides St. Matthew, are Ward United Presbyterian, St. Timothy Presbyterian, Church of the Savior Reformed, and Holy Cross Evangelical Lutheran. All are located in Livonia.

Leading the worship will be the Rev. Dickson Forsythe of St. Timothy, The Rev. William C. Lindholm of Holy Cross, The Rev. Ron VanDerWerff of Church of the Savior, Dr. Bartlett L. Hess and the Rev. L. Edward Davis of Ward and the Rev. William Rickart and the Rev. Jerome Smith of St. Matthew.

Choirs of Bentley and Stevenson High Schools will provide music.

ST. DAVID EPISCOPAL CHURCH, 27500 Marquette, Garden City, will host from 12 noon to 3 p.m. a Garden City Community Good Friday service. Garden City First Baptist, Merriman Road Baptist, Garden City Free Methodist, Good Hope Lutheran, Garden City First United Methodist, Garden City Presbyterian and St. David will participate.

Six half-hour meditations will deal with virtue, truth, sacrificing, healing and death. Those attending are invited to participate in all or part of the worship.

REDFORD BAPTIST CHURCH, 25295 Grand River, Redford Township, will present Dr. Norman R. DePuy, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Dearborn and former executive director of the American Baptist Church division of communications, as speaker from 12:30 to 1:30 p.m. A handbell choir directed by Mary Whitmore will offer selections.

The Redford Council of Churches, including Village United Presbyterian, Good Shepherd Evangelical Lutheran and Redford Baptist, all of Redford Township, and Detroit churches Coronado Baptist, Redford United Methodist and West Outer Drive United Methodist, will sponsor the service.

RICE UNITED METHODIST CHURCH, 20601 Beech Daly, Redford Township, will host a service from 1 to 2 p.m., with Evangelical Covenant of Detroit and Clarenceville United Methodist of Livonia participating.

The other ecumenical service, sponsored by the Wayne-Westland Ministerial Association, will be held beginning at 1 p.m. in the First United Methodist Church of Wayne, 3739 Newberry.

Bethel Missionary Assembly of God,

8900 Middle Belt, Livonia, will host a special Good Friday service from 1 to 2:45 p.m. under sponsorship of Assemblies of God churches of Livonia, Plymouth, Westland, Northland and Dearborn Heights.

The Rev. Fred McDaniel will be speaker and special music is planned. The other combined service will be held in Aldersgate United Methodist Church, 10000 Beech Daly, from 1:30 to 3 p.m., with Lola Valley United Methodist the cooperating church.

SPECIAL PROGRAMS to mark Good Friday are planned in Covenant Community Church, Beech Daly at Student, Redford Township; Sword of the Spirit Lutheran, 34563 Seven Mile, Livonia, and St. Paul United Presbyterian, 27475 Five Mile, Livonia.

Covenant will offer a 1 p.m. service on "The Last Seven Words of Christ," with preaching by Dan Humphrey, minister of youth; H. Dalton Myers, pastor; W. Howard Schoof, associate pastor; Bill Gaynor, minister of youth, and visiting clergymen Paul Whaley, Earle Rosenberger, and Hubert Karl.

Also planned by Covenant is a 7:30 p.m. concert by the Detroit Bible College Chorale, directed by Raymond Shuster Jr., chairman of the music department at DBC.

Drama marks Good Friday worship for St. Paul and Sword of the Spirit. The Presbyterian church will present at its 1:30 to 3 p.m. service a play titled "The Last Day of the Lord." The cast will include Pam Nelson, Jack Weinsheimer, Bill McGaughy, Barbara Smith, Jan Thiemann, Carol Canavan and Bill Whitledge. There will be special music.

"Bring Forth the Cross," is the title of the drama scheduled by Sword of the Spirit at 8 p.m. Members of the congregation will take part in the courtroom scene.

If the land is worthy, the design should be Scholz.

There are some people for whom only the right setting and design will give the satisfaction they seek in a home.

And if you've gone to the trouble to find that "right setting," the chances are excellent that a Scholz home is that "right design."

Scholz has over 200 different home designs and each one can be modified to meet the needs and desires you have for your home.

If you're still looking for that piece of land that is the "right setting," there's a good possibility that I can help you in this respect also.

As a Scholz design is worthy of the best setting, I have property which could be just what you're looking for.

To see all the Scholz designs and discuss the building of all of your home, please call for a time you will be available.

Elegant Pewterware
in the great American tradition.
Yours free at Michigan National Bank with qualifying loans or deposits.

What is Armetale Pewterware?

Armetale is actually a space age metal alloy but with the look and feel of antique pewter. Using an ancient sand molding process, each piece is handcrafted by the superb technicians of the Wilton Brass Company in Columbia, Pennsylvania. The exclusive Liberty Bell touchmark is featured on every piece.

Armetale won't bend, dent or break. You can use it for cooking, storing or serving any food or drink. You can even place dishes from the freezer directly into a preheated oven! Armetale is non-toxic and completely safe. You'll enjoy years of service from this handsome bicentennial inspired pewterware.

WITH A DEPOSIT IN A NEW CHECKING ACCOUNT, THE PURCHASE OF A CERTIFICATE OF DEPOSIT, OR AN INSTALLMENT LOAN, YOU QUALIFY FOR A GIFT OR SPECIAL PURCHASE AS FOLLOWS:

Prices in this column apply to installment loan gifts. All prices plus tax.

It's easy to collect. Two ways.

1. As shown at left, Wilton Armetale Pewterware is available free or at low cost by (a) opening a new savings account (including Certificates of deposit) (b) Opening a new checking account, or (c) adding to an existing savings account. Best of all, every dollar you save will earn the highest commercial bank rate interest allowed — from 5% to 7 1/2%* annually. One free gift per family please.
2. Armetale Pewterware is also available when you take out an installment loan for a new car, boat, recreation vehicle or the like. A loan of $1500 entitles you to $15 worth of Armetale at prices shown in the table. A loan of $2500 entitles you to $25 worth. A loan of $5000 lets you select $50 worth of this beautiful pewterware at the special prices shown.

Place settings are also available for purchase with any qualifying deposit.

So, put a little spirit in your banking with Armetale Pewterware from the Saturday Bank.

*Federal regulations require an interest penalty for early withdrawal of Certificates of Deposit funds.
